Truman Adopts FDR War Policies; To Speak Monday; Pledges Pour In

PLEA FROM THE TOMB

Peace Era Envisioned In Roosevelt Notes For His Last Talk

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in the last public address he prepared before his death, called on the peoples of the world to learn to live together in peace that civilization might survive.

If he had lived to deliver it, he would have expressed grave concern for the pattern of the world's future after hostilities cease, but would have pledged anew this nation's determination that there shall be no third world war.

"We seek peace—enduring peace," he wrote.

The speech was prepared for a now postponed Jefferson Day dinner scheduled for tonight.

In it he recognized the nearness of military victory but warned that military victory will not be enough if a world free from war is to be built from the ruins of this worldwide conflict.

"The once-powerful, malignant Nazi state is crumbling," he wrote. "The Japanese war lords are receiving, in their own homeland, the retribution for which they asked when they attacked Pearl Harbor.

"But the mere conquest of our enemies is not enough. We must go on to do all in our power to conquer the doubts and the fears, the ignorance and the greed, which made this horror possible." It is essential, he said, that means be found to stop wars before they begin and stop "this brutal, inhuman and thoroughly impractical method of settling differences between governments."

"Today we are faced with the pre-eminent fact that if civilization is to survive we must cultivate the science of human relationships—the ability of all peoples, of all kinds, to live together and work together, in the same world, at peace. . . .

"Today, as we move against the terrible scourge of war—as we go forward toward the greatest contribution that any generation of human beings can make in this world, the contribution of lasting peace—I ask you to keep your faith. . . .

"The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today. Let us move forward with strong and active faith."

FACES SET, TENSE

Warm Springs Hushed As 'Loved One' Departs

By LEE FUHRMAN,
City Editor, The Constitution.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 13.—Franklin Delano Roosevelt has left his beloved Georgia for the last time. . . .

Here he had come often to rest from the difficult labors as President of the United States. Here this morning he began the journey to the grave.

Always a quiet place, far from the rush and turmoil of life, but close to pain and suffering, this little community built around the Warm Springs Foundation, one of the late President's many humanitarian dreams come true, offered a paradox.

BUSY WITH DETAILS

It was busy with countless details incident to the funeral of a great leader, and it was strangely hushed under a shining sky, stunned into silence by the loss of a man beloved.

In all the world, perhaps no friends were greater than the patients at the foundation, a world of crutches and wheelchairs where human beings battle against the dread disease called infantile paralysis.

Yes, he was their special friend, and so this morning these men and women and children—many men wearing uniforms of the armed services—were wheeled out to the wide portico of Georgia Hall, where Franklin Delano Roosevelt's cheerfulness and charm aided sufferers in their fight against polio.

They have names, these patients—Jane Richcreek and Helen Roberts and Lt. Barry Parkell and Seaman Lawrence G. Waterman and Bernice Burns and Nancy Karsh—and they summed up Roosevelt in a wonderful way—"He was the sweetest man that ever lived."

They sat in their wheel chairs or lay on stretchers or hobbled out to the front of the hall, there to wait for the procession to start from the "Little White House," that would mark the first step in their friend's voyage to an eternal resting place at his home at Hyde Park.

There were not only the patients waiting. There was the hospital personnel, typified by Mrs. Lena Buck, of Parkersburg, W. Va., an X-ray technician, who had polio at the age of 4, and who now toils to help others.

APPETITES GONE

She stood behind the wheelchair of one of her charges, and said:

"No one has eaten much since the President died. There is no appetite for food. We have lost a true friend. We feel it."

As the patients and staff assembled in front of the hall, workers like W. F. Phillips, employed in the brace shop, stood along the sides of the hall. There were gardeners, and maids, and waiters, and waitresses, the busy, sound bodies that keep the foundation going on its way of mercy.

Their faces were set and tense. Lovely elms and oaks threw shadows across the portico. The weather was warm. In the center of the ground in front of the hall the flag stood at half-mast. Two young Marines guarded the flag.

Then there was the distant sound

Clear to Cloudy And Warm Forecast

Clear to partly cloudy skies with continued rather warm temperatures are forecast for Atlanta and vicinity today.

Officials at the municipal airport weather bureau set the high yesterday at 83 degrees, while the low was 57. Highest temperature expected today is 83 and low 59.

ATLANTA BUSINESS TO PAY RESPECT IN MEMORY OF PRES. ROOSEVELT

Most business, both public and private, will come to a halt in Atlanta today in honor of President Franklin Roosevelt.

The Retail Merchants' Association called on its members to close their stores, and many business houses not connected with the association joined in the tribute to the late president.

Grocery stores will remain open until 3 p. m.; drugstores will have special schedules; entertainment houses will be closed for much of the day. For a complete schedule, see Page 10.

Truman To Meet FDR Train

Cabinet, Legislators Also To Be Present When Body Arrives

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) President Truman will meet the body of President Roosevelt on its arrival tomorrow and later accompany it to its final resting place at Hyde Park.

The White House said the body will arrive from Warm Springs at the Union Station here at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The flag-draped casket will be taken to the White House on a caisson after a ceremonial procession of high functionaries of government civilian and military life.

The body bearers will be two non-commissioned officers each from the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps commanded by Army M. Sgt. James Bowder. There will be no other pallbearers here.

At the Union station the body will be met by representatives of the cabinet, judiciary and legislative departments, with President Truman at their head.

The Air Force Band will play appropriate music.

The procession, moving at the pace of a horse-drawn caisson and foot soldiers, will proceed from Union station via Delaware avenue, Constitution avenue, Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue to the northwest gate of the White House.

The route of march will be lined with troops from all the services at spaced intervals.

The caisson, flanked by active body-bearers and the national colors as well as the President's flag, will be followed by the immediate family in autos, representatives of the government and of the diplomatic corps.

At the White House, in the East Room, simple services will be held at 3 p. m. (Atlanta time).

By command of King George, the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada, will represent the English monarch at the funeral services here.

Services at Hyde Park will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday at the grave in the Hyde Park garden to the north side of the mansion, and just behind the library.

Truman Proclaims Day of Mourning

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) President Harry S. Truman today proclaimed tomorrow as a national day of mourning for Franklin D. Roosevelt, but there will be no general interruption in the flow of supplies to the fighting fronts.

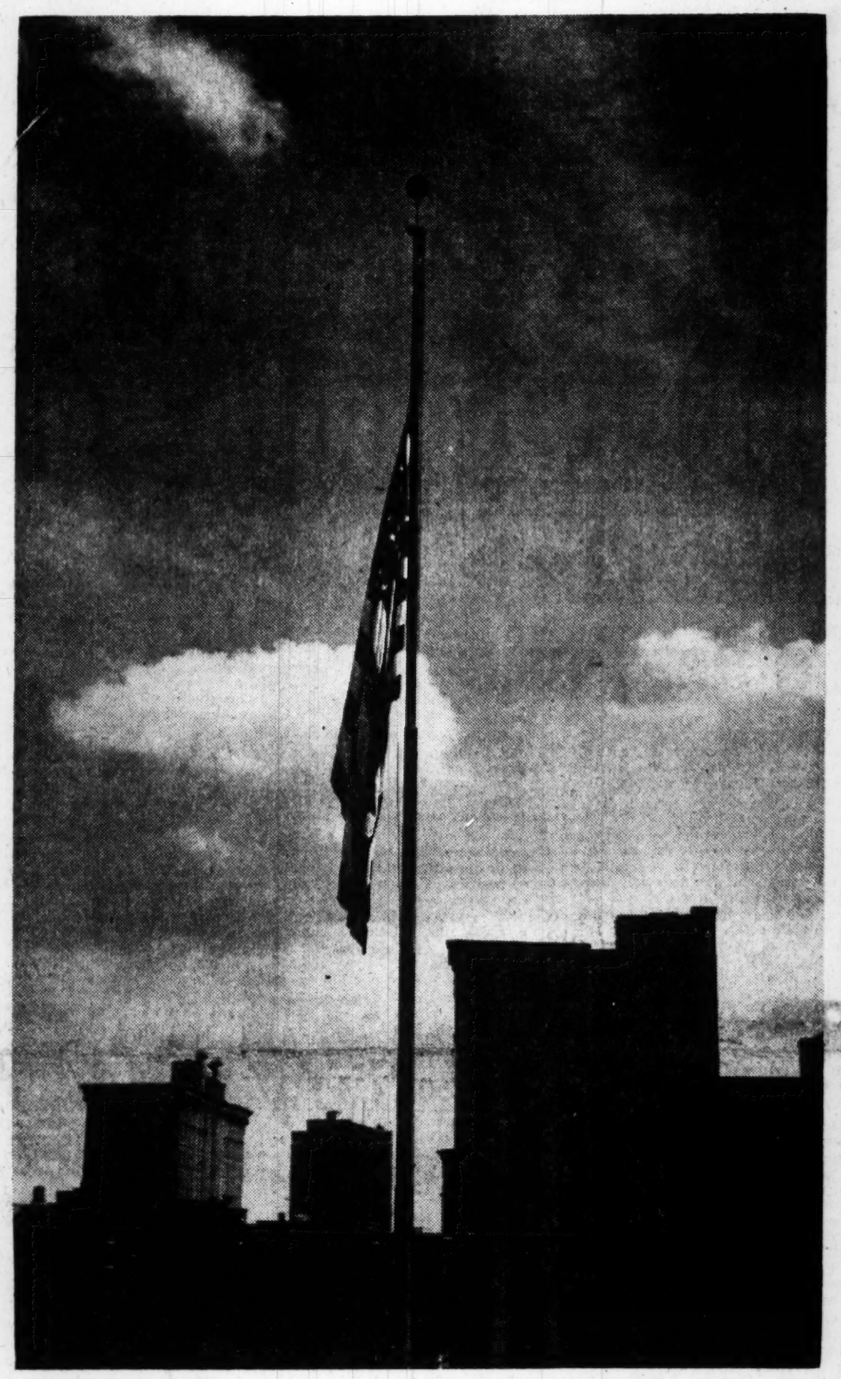

Shortly after the new chief executive issued his proclamation asking that the country observe the day of Mr. Roosevelt's funeral services at the White House by visiting the churches in their respective communities.

LONDON, Saturday, April 14. (UP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden left by plane for the United States to attend the funeral of President Roosevelt, it was announced officially today.

Secretary of War Stimson, meanwhile, officially proclaimed a 30-day period of mourning for the Army.

In a general order he directed that memorial services be held on

Our Flag! How proudly it has flown
Defying tyrant, scepter, throne!
Its red of blood, its blue of skies
Have brought new hope to hopeless eyes
And darkness of the somber night
Has lifted with its gleaming white.
But like a bruised and withered flower
It bows in this, the burdened hour—
A broken blossom, fallen leaf,
The symbol of a nation's grief.

Party Lines Yield As New President Consults Leaders

By JAMES C. AUSTIN.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—President Truman took over active direction of the most powerful nation in the world today and in a series of lightning moves served notice that he will carry on for President Roosevelt in achieving quick victory and lasting peace.

Even before he could accustom himself to the great oval executive office at the White House, the new President conferred with his chiefs of war and foreign policy. He made an unprecedented trip to the capitol to lunch and confer with congressional leaders. He met with former War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, the man whose knowledge of America's part in the war was second only to Mr. Roosevelt's. He prepared to address a joint session of congress next Monday and to talk by radio later in the week to the armed forces. And he asked his old friends in the press corps to "pray for me now."

MEETS STETTINIUS

Mr. Truman met twice with Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr., and after the second meeting the cabinet official disclosed in a formal statement that the new administration was pledging to "no change of purposes or break in continuity" with foreign policy established by President Roosevelt.

It was a statement of reassurance to both Americans and their Allies, that President Truman had picked up the ball of state where Mr. Roosevelt dropped it when he died yesterday at Warm Springs, Georgia.

Mr. Truman's first day in office ended when he arrived back at his modest five-room apartment at 4:03 p. m. (Atlanta time) accompanied by half a dozen secret service men.

It had been an auspicious beginning for the man who less than 24 hours earlier had been the vice president and presiding officer of the senate. And the first reaction from legislator and private citizen alike was that the 32d President of the United States, who once failed as a haberdasher, was taking hold of his new job with determination.

Like an office worker who has to punch a time clock, the new President arrived at the White House at 9 o'clock sharp. He went immediately to the oval executive offices and seated himself behind the great desk where his predecessor had worked too hard. Then he summoned Secretary of State Stettinius.

The war chiefs came next, and they told their new commander about the progress of the war in Europe and in the Pacific. And before noon had rolled around, President Truman had followed Mr. Roosevelt in shattering precedent. He drove to the Capitol for a luncheon conference with the leaders of congress.

TO SPEAK MONDAY

After the luncheon, Mr. Truman announced that he would address a joint session of congress at noon (Atlanta time) Monday to outline his own plans, and to explain how he will follow up the furrows of victory and peace cut by Mr. Roosevelt. The presidential address, to be given from the well of the house, will be broadcast by all networks.

It was all business today for the man who placed his hand on a Bible in the White House and was sworn in at 6:08 p. m. Thursday to finish the job that Mr. Roosevelt had begun.

There was a smile on the gray-haired President's face as he left

Shakedown Crises Near For Truman

Nazis' Early Fall, Reds in Jap War Two Possibilities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Official word that the European war may end in a few days promises to plunge President Truman into a series of international crises before he has been two weeks in the White House.

The possibility of Russia's entry into the Pacific war may force a new meeting within a few months of top Russian, British and American leaders to acquaint President Truman with the Big Three's plans—some of them secret.

Washington is certain that the broad war and peace policies laid down by President Roosevelt will be continued by Mr. Truman. Yet there is a wait-and-see attitude about how he will put them into effect.

Associates readily recognized that he has these three handicaps of which Mr. Roosevelt was free:

1. Lack of experience in conducting foreign affairs.
2. Lack of a close working relationship with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin and,
3. Unfamiliarity with details of diplomacy which Mr. Roosevelt had developed through personal dealings with the British and Russian leaders.

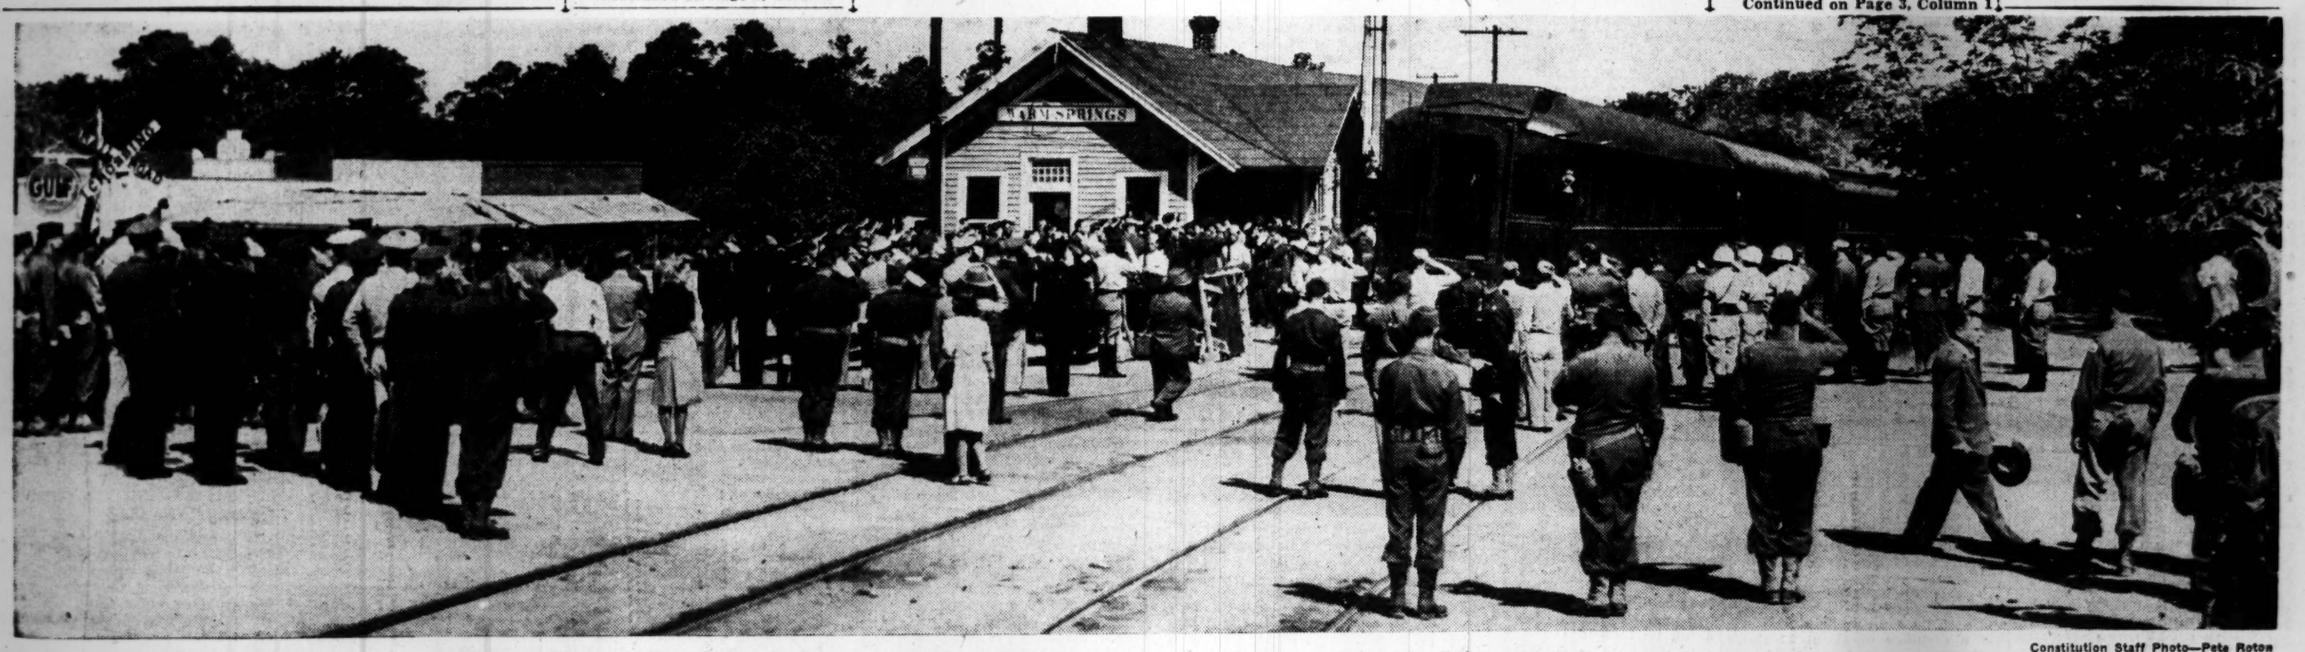

On the other hand Mr. Truman's initial strength in foreign affairs probably will lie in his close relations with the senate. He is expected to build on this, seeking the views of senate leaders whose task it may be a few months hence to advocate ratification of American membership in a world organization to keep the peace.

Shortly after he became President last night the White House

CHURCH BELLS TO PEAL TRIBUTE

Churches of all denominations in the metropolitan Atlanta area which have bells will peal them out in tribute to President Roosevelt at 3 p. m. today, Mayor Hartsfield anounced last night after conferring with several ministers. The bells will peal for five minutes as the funeral services are held in the White House at 4 p. m., Washington time, which is 3 p. m., Atlanta time.

Patton's 32-Mile Swoop All But Bisects Germany

Third Army Cuts Roads, Railways

Now But 90 Miles From Reds; German Capital Flanked

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR.

PARIS, Saturday, April 14.—(AP) The U. S. Third Army has severed all direct roads and railways between Berlin and southern Germany with a dazzling 32-mile eastward drive that all but split the Reich in half.

Lt. Gen. Patton struck with all his wonted fury, cutting the Munich-Berlin superhighway and two railways and driving a wedge of steel within 90 miles of the Rusian lines and 38 miles of Dresden, Saxon capital, yesterday.

The Third Army was outflanking both Berlin and the Czechoslovakian munitions city of Pilsen, and driving hard against the last lines of retreat over which the Germans were reported streaming southward for Bavaria and the final big battle of the war.

MO EMENTS MASKED

Patton's columns, their exact positions masked in secrecy, were believed already 30 miles east of the western tip of Czechoslovakia and racing unopposed across the waist of Germany about 32 miles north of that Balkan democracy's northern frontier.

Rocketing eastward almost unopposed, the Fourth Armored Division hurdled the Mulde river 10 miles northwest of the big communications center of Chemnitz, whose fall would cut the last main railway leading from Berlin to southern Germany and the Brenner Pass.

BERLIN OUTFLANKED

Farther north, his Sixth Armored Division was outflanking Berlin itself, reaching the Mulde river southeast of embattled Leipzig and about 85 miles due south of Berlin.

German positions in the west were disintegrating fast.

The U. S. Ninth Army rolled up to the Elbe river on a 100-mile front—thrust within 45 miles of Berlin—and fought a roaring battle on the east bank.

The U. S. First Army opened the battle of Leipzig, now bypassed by the Third Army, and charged eight miles through its stiff defenses to within seven miles of the city, where an estimated 1,000,000 persons, many of them bombed out refugees from Berlin, cowered in air raid shelters and basements.

95 MILES FROM REDS

The U. S. Ninth Army was about 95 miles from the Russians, and the First Army was 115 miles away.

Patton's troops were believed to be cutting straight across Germany 32 miles north of the Czechoslovak border, and 115 miles above the big Skoda munitions town of Pilsen.

Pilots reported Germans on the north German plain in retreat eastward from as far away as Luebeck, 135 miles northwest of Berlin.

The enemy on the north German plain was in the greatest immediate peril from the U. S. Ninth Army, which after crossing the Elbe Thursday, brought up a steel fist with one tremendous 60-mile drive that reached the river north of the crossings and much closer to Berlin.

FIGHTING AT ELBE RIVER

The Elbe bridgehead, 57 miles from the capital, was being built up swiftly as the Germans turned and rained blows on the American positions, trying to drive them back into the river. A field dispatch said despite the resistance, the Berlin drive would be resumed shortly.

Back of racing Third Army columns, historic Jena, where Napoleon won one of his greatest victories, fell after a short, fierce skirmish.

The Third Army seemed to be racing with the U. S. Seventh Army for the last Munich-Berlin superhighway, lifeline between north and south Germany. One of the big six-lane highways already had been severed in the sweep across the Mulde.

The Third Army was about 10 miles from the speedway, while the Seventh Army farther south was possibly 15 miles away from crossing the River Main on a broad front north of Bamberg.

NAZI REVOLT REPORTS

Air opposition to Lt. Gen. Patton's onrushing forces suddenly vanished, bolstering reports on that front that the German air force had revolted and that hundreds of its pilots had been slaughtered by SS (Elite) troopers.

From the First Army front came a story of an abortive revolt in Berlin early in March, a German woman refugee from the capital saying 5,000 Volkssturm troops had turned their newly-issued weapons on their masters and had been mowed down.

Everywhere, signs of German collapse were multiplying.

Duisburg, city of 431,000 in the Ruhr and Germany's greatest river port, fell as the U. S. First and Ninth Armies methodically caved in the sides of the Ruhr trap, from which 84,585 prisoners of an estimated force of 150,000 already have been flushed.

SIGNS OF WEAKNESS

Even on the stout British-Canadian front there were portents of weakness where there had been plenty of strength before.

The Canadian First Army drove six miles beyond the Issel river—German bulwark guarding Rotterdam and Amsterdam—and battled into the center of Arnhem, where the British airborne operation ended in heroic defeat last September.

The British Second Army found a soft spot on the north German plain beyond the Weser river and drove 10 miles northwest to a point 45 miles from the Elbe river southeast of Hamburg.

Thus the British Second and the U. S. Ninth Armies were sealing off Denmark and the north German ports.

ELBE LINE CRUMBLING

The Elbe river line was clearly buckling, despite the bitter resistance met on the east bank by the Second Armored Division near Magdeburg.

The Second Armored Division was pouring across reinforcements and supplies and building up its forces for the last smash toward rubbled Berlin.

The Fifth Armored Division in its record-breaking 60-mile dash reached the river at Tangermuende, 30 miles northeast of Magdeburg and 4 miles west of the outskirts of greater Berlin.

Other elements of the division reached the Elbe at Seerhausen, five miles farther north.

83D AT BARBY

At the opposite end of the curving river line, the 83d Infantry reached the Elbe at Barby, 13 miles southeast of Magdeburg.

Magdeburg, caught in this crescent of steel, still held out on the west bank but was being steadily reduced.

The Fifth Armored Division's streaking advance eclipsed the 55-mile mark set by the U. S. First Army's Third Armored Division when it cut off the Ruhr basin from the east.

The movement on the Ninth Army front was unceasingly eastward, with trucks, tanks, jeeps and captured German vehicles filling the road.

Infantry mopping up far in the rear of the trail-blazing columns still fought inside Brunswick.

DUISBURG TAKEN

Back in the Ruhr, the 79th Infantry captured Duisburg, a city of 431,000 and Europe's greatest river port, after German civilians twice tried to surrender the city in defiance of their Nazi overlords.

Farther east, the 75th Infantry division drove deeper into Dortmund, with a population normally of 537,000 and the largest Ruhr city still in enemy hands.

Gen. Patton's Third Army tanks were fanning out south of Leipzig and Berlin against only token resistance, heading for a junction with the Russians.

The exact positions of the Fourth and Sixth armored columns were not disclosed.

SCHWARZACH ENTERED

The Eleventh armored division far to the south entered Schwarzach, 16 miles northwest of the musical festival city of Bayreuth, about 18 miles from the Munich-Berlin highway and 34 miles from the Czech border.

German defenses had been ripped wide open, and all day Thursday no enemy artillery, mortar or antitank fire was encountered on large sections of Patton's front.

A few blown bridges, a few unmanned roadblocks alone slowed the pace of the advance.

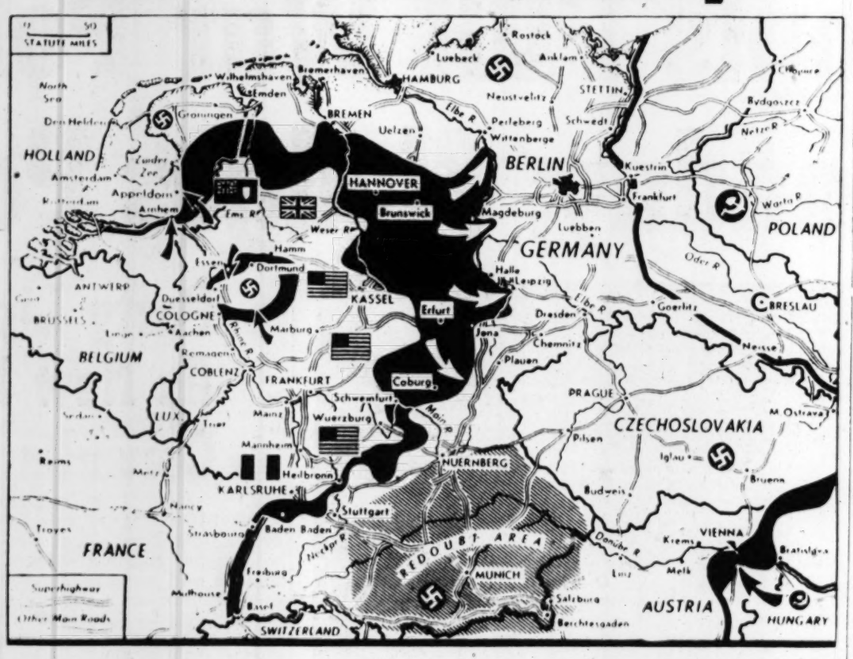

The 76th Infantry, following up behind the tanks, alone cleared 55 German towns.

HODGES MENACES LEIPZIG

Lt. Gen. Hodges' First Army tanks and infantry were closing swiftly on Leipzig, from which radiates a vital network of highways that link north and south Germany.

Spearheaded by the Ninth armored division, Hodges' forces crossed the Saale river south of Weiszenfels, which is 15 miles southwest of the ruined city, and fought street by street through that town.

Tanks and troops were up against depressed antiaircraft guns, which ring Leipzig in an arc for a distance of about 12 miles and actually are part of Berlin's outer flak defenses.

'Inner Circle' To Set Policy

By ERNEST B. VACCARO.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—President Truman, who says he "won't be pressured," is expected to turn to advisers of his own inner circle in formulating new White House policy.

Men like former War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and a newcomer to politics, Hugh Fulton, 37-year-old lawyer, are high on his list of friends.

Whomever he picks to help him guide the destiny of a war-torn nation, the new president is expected to follow the ultimatum he announced to this reporter just a few days before President Roosevelt's death sent him into the White House.

"There's no use in any one trying to apply pressure to me," he said in this interview. "I'm going to do my duty as I see fit, and let my conscience rule."

FLAT "NO"

It was shortly after a group of men representing 31 CIO locals from his home state of Missouri had filed into Truman's office to urge him to use his "influence" at the White House to get the "Little Steel Formula" revised upward.

He smiled at them, but said "no"—flatly.

Frank speaking was the rule throughout his 10,000-mile vice presidential campaign tour.

One thing he resented was an attempt by political opponents to link him with the Ku Klux Klan in the early days of his political career in Missouri. He called that story "a lie."

He never dodged a question, even if he thought it might cost votes. The reporters who accompanied him were amazed when he frequently admitted he didn't have some of the answers to the questions asked.

CLOSE FRIENDS

Byrnes, Hannegan and Fulton are among his closest friends.

Truman always insisted he gave his full support to Byrnes for the democratic vice presidential nomination last summer until the latter was turned down by labor and the party leadership.

Truman engineered Hannegan's nomination as commissioner of internal revenue last year and later helped move him up into the party's chairmanship.

Fulton's case is different. Yet those close to the new president say that somewhere in the line-up there will be a place for the former chief counsel to the senate war investigating (Truman) committee. Some say he may eventually be attorney general, if he wants it. He now enjoys a lucrative Washington and New York practice.

Truman and Fulton met for the first time a little more than four years ago. At that time, in response to an appeal to the attorney general for a "good man," the latter walked into Truman's office to talk over the job of chief counsel for the Truman committee.

Fulton, a special assistant to the attorney general and rising young prosecutor at the time, took the post at a salary sacrifice after Truman told him:

NO WHITEWASH

"I don't want to smear any one. I do not want to whitewash any one. If you can take the job on that basis, I can tell you now you'll have my full support in all that you undertake."

Out of that interview grew one of the broadest, most applauded congressional investigations in all history, and an enduring friendship.

A list of Truman's intimate friends alone would run into the hundreds for he's a sociable man. He likes people. All during his long campaign trip, he never tired of the handshaking that was such a big part of it.

In the field of business, he has close friends like Henry J. Kaiser, and Andrew Jackson Higgins, the west coast and New Orleans shipbuilders.

Speculation already is under way as to the place of Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's close advisor, in the new setup. There are many who think Hopkins probably will play a less conspicuous part in the new regime.

Whatever figures his own "kitchen cabinet" may contain, no one doubts that the new president will turn frequently to his ex-colleagues on the hill before making final major decisions.

HAMLET OF 400 REVERENT

Warm Springs Weeps Over Its Biggest Loss

By DAVE SNELL.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 13.—It is just after midnight in this Georgia hamlet. The stars are shining brightly, and a curtain of the honeysuckle's perfume hangs over the land.

You wonder if the President came to this place to die. You think of the global career of Franklin Delano Roosevelt which a few hours ago came to an end, and then you connect that so-final ending of the career with this village of 400.

You are standing beside the often-photographed flagstop station in Warm Springs, waiting. Others are with you. You are waiting for the arrival of Mrs. Roosevelt and Steve Early. Around you are men from a score of newspapers and the wire services. There are little boys and girls of Warm Springs, standing quietly by.

It is cool tonight, and just over the rise, at the Warm Springs Foundation, the body of Franklin Roosevelt lies still, near the magic pool where 20 years ago he found health and hope.

WOMAN STANDS WEEPING

Near you a middle-aged farm woman stands weeping. No one asks why. Occasionally a press photographer flashes her, but she pays no attention.

Now a spokesman appears, and you learn that the one-time first lady is not to arrive at this station, but that she already is resting within the heavily-guarded confines of the foundation.

The newsmen move toward the small but elegant Warm Springs hotel, where the presidential party and the secret service are always quartered. As you pass into the lobby something catches your eye on the left, leaning against the building near the door. It is an inclined plane, and it rends your heart, for it is for a wheelchair that will never come again.

The hotel manager comes into the lobby and adresses the group:

"The President and his party were to have attended a barbecue here at 5 p. m.—and he died. We had the food all prepared. You may eat it if you're hungry, for it would only go to waste . . . it's on the house."

TABLE EXQUISITELY SET

The reporters and photographers file past the buffet table, exquisitely set. There is plenty of good lamb, pork, and beef, and a great quantity of one of Franklin Roosevelt's favorite dishes—Georgia brunswick stew. There is a superb array of salads. The food is good, but you cannot eat it. It sticks in your throat, perhaps because a lump is there.

You listen to the talk of the veteran newsmen. There is the same jargon, the same outward irreverance, but there is mist in many eyes, and you know what these men are feeling. And unlike so many press gatherings, where there is waiting, tonight there is no drinking.

Now it is 1 a. m., of all the good days in the year, on Friday the 13th. A train is backing into the tiny station. There is a long chain of drawing room Pullmans, and near the end is a combination chair car and Pullman. You don't understand what makes you know it, but you are sure that this is the car that will carry the casket to the east.

AUTOMOBILES LOADED

At the other end the engine is uncoupled, and the end panel of a specially built car is opened. Negro laborers attach two tracks from the ground to the floor level of the car, and the secret service men begin loading the automobiles that have so often been seen in the President's parades. The last car to drive up is the stately canvas-topped Packard, bearing on its radiator the sterling four-star seal of the nation's leader. The rear seat, where in the newsreels you have seen Franklin Roosevelt waving his hat and grinning, is now dark and silent.

The secret service men load their luggage—including 18 golf bags. The vacation is over, and the smiles are gone.

Down the tracks, somewhere, a whistle blows, mourning.

You walk through the perfumed night, awaiting the morning, when Franklin Roosevelt will leave Warm Springs to return no more.

BLOOD DONATIONS WILL HONOR FDR

The Atlanta Red Cross blood donor center will remain open today to fulfill an obligation to the living. So imperative is the need for blood plasma that donations must continue while a nation mourns.

No more fitting tribute can be made to one who gave his life in the service of his country than a blood donation. Saturday, during the hours of 9 to 12, make your blood donation in the loving and respectful memory of a great commander-in-chief that men now bearing arms may live. The Atlanta Red Cross Donor Center is at 291 Peachtree street, N. E.

'Criminal,' Say Nazis Of FDR

'Nobody Will Shed A Tear,' Berlin Radio Comments

LONDON, April 13.—(UP)—Germany called Pres. Roosevelt the greatest war criminal of all time today and said nobody would mourn him. But Japan, though it denounced him as a symbol of imperialism, said that he was a man of a type of which the world had not seen many in its history.

A German radio commentator, in a statement believed to have been written by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, said that Adolf Hitler had been saved from assassination by a divine miracle last July and that another such miracle had struck the President dead.

Berlin revealed its hate for the man the Nazis had most feared. But German radios in broadcasting the news—which reached Berlin during a night Mosquito plane raid—recognized its importance and the first six items in the Transocean Agency broadcast this morning dealt with the death. The seventh was a war front survey.

REVEALS HATRED

It was the first time in some two years of momentous events that German radios had not started their morning news programs with a front survey.

"Nobody in the world will shed a tear now that he is dead," the Berlin radio broadcast to German newspapers for compulsory publication.

"One of the greatest war criminals of all time has found the fate he deserved," Berlin's sole remaining afternoon newspaper said.

The Fascist radio of Benito Mussolini, who used mustard gas against Ethiopian civilians and stabbed France in the back, said:

"CRIMINAL," SAYS BERLIN

"Divine justice has avenged the sacrifice of so many innocent victims of so many blood baths and so much mourning."

Sadao Iguchi, official spokesman, gave Japan's formal comment:

"The death of Pres. Roosevelt gives the American public the best opportunity to reconsider what they are fighting for. This is particularly true when such bloody battles are raging in the Philippines and the Ryukyus, because Pres. Roosevelt was the one who drove the United States public into such a meaningless and costly war."

However, Tokyo comment was unusually restrained in contrast to that of Berlin.

"He was the symbol of American imperialism, a mixed phenomenon," said Tokyo radio. "Let us not question now whether what Pres. Roosevelt stood for and worked for has been good or evil. At least, he was a man of a type of which the world has not seen many in history."

Historic Vienna Captured, 130,000 Prisoners Taken

LONDON, Saturday, April 14.—(AP)—The Red army captured Vienna yesterday after a week's siege, clearing the way for Russian drives to Prague and the Nazis' "mountain redoubt" in southern Germany after taking more than 130,000 Nazi prisoners in the battle for the second city of Adolf Hitler's Greater Reich.

Vienna, 2,000-year-old city where Hitler as an embittered and obscure young artist first dreamed of world conquest, fell to the combined Second and Third Ukrainian armies under Marshals Rodion Y. Malinovsky and Feodor I. Tolbukhin. It was the 10th European capital occupied by the Red army and the 18th liberated or dominated by the Allies.

Eleven German tank divisions were smashed in fighting in the Austrian capital and on the roads to it between March 15 and April 13, Moscow said, while the Soviet radio proclaimed that the Viennese had "saved the honor of the Austrian nation" by assisting in the liberation of the city.

1,500-MILE SWEEP

Vienna, classic bulwark of the invasion routes to Bavaria, fell to the co-conquerors of the Balkans after they all but encircled the city. It was the culmination of a 1,500-mile sweep since last fall by the two armies from the Dnestr river on the Russian frontier. The drive carried through Bucharest, Sofia, Belgrade and Budapest, knocking three Axis satellites out of the war and partially liberating Yugoslavia.

Simultaneous with the fall of Vienna, Malinovsky's troops northeast of the capital captured the Moravian war center of Hodonin in a surge across a 14-mile stretch of the Morava river that carried them within 32 miles of the Czechoslovak arsenal city of Bruenn (Brno) and into Moravia on a 25-mile front.

FINAL ZERO HOUR NEAR

Before Berlin, the Red Army's greatest objective, Russian artillery hammered German defensive positions along the Oder river and Nazi aerial reconnaissance indicated zero-hour was approaching for Russia's "final heave," but immense Russian ground forces were not yet reported on the move.

Even as burned and tortured Vienna fell Tolbukhin's tanks were rolling back the German army across Austria between the Danube and Drava rivers on a 170-mile front toward Hitler's Bavarian fortress.

Vienna was freed seven years, one month and a day after Austrain-born Hitler had sent his legions into the capital for the forced "Anschluss" of 1938—one of his first acts which led to World War II.

Hitler had ordered Vienna defended to the last man, captives told the Red Army, but Tolbukhin's troops overnight wiped out the last defenders of the nine-mile-long holdout island of resistance between the Danube and the Danube canal.

THIRD FALL OF CITY

Throughout the night, the Russians fought in streets, buildings, from cellars, rooftops, down stairways and through narrow alleys as the fanatical Germans defended themselves with mortar and machinegun fire and heavy sniping.

It was the third time in its 2,000-year history that Vienna had been conquered by force. In the middle of the fifth century, it was captured by the Ostrogoths. More than a century ago it was twice occupied by French troops under Napoleon, before and after the Battle of Wagram, where the "Little Corporal" defeated the Austrians under the Archduke Charles.

The world's 15th city in population, Vienna, which for four centuries was the residence of the German emperors, had a 1939 population of 1,918,462 persons, the second largest German-speaking city in the world.

The liberation of Vienna left five European capitals in the grip of the Nazis, including their own battered and imperiled Berlin. The others are Prague, The Hague, Oslo and Copenhagen.

Meanwhile there was no indication that the Red Army had opened its Berlin offensive. Associated Press Moscow dispatches said there was no basis for published reports that the Moscow radio had reported fighting west of the Oder east of Berlin.

Huge B-29 Fleet Sets Tokyo Afire

GUAM, Saturday, April 14.—(AP)—Superfortress bombers in very great strength showered thousands of tons of incendiaries on Tokyo war industries today in possibly the heaviest B-29 attack on the Japanese capital.

The Marianas-based sky giants—perhaps as many as 400—hit the inflammable Tokyo arsenal area at 12:30 a. m. (Japan time—11:30 a. m. Friday U. S. eastern war time) in the second Superfort assault on the city in 38 hours.

Tokyo radio said fires continued to rage in the city several hours after the B-29s in the low-level attack blasted the five-mile-square target area containing three main arsenal buildings and more than 30 specific targets of the attack.

RECORD T.RGET

Never have the 21st Bomber Command Superforts, in all their 15 attacks on Tokyo, attacked targets holding such a collection of first-rate installations contributing to the enemy's frontline strength.

All the factories in the oval-shaped target area are engaged in the production of explosives, chemicals and armaments. One of the arsenals is the famous Itabashi plant.

The area, which has a population of from 30,000 to 80,000 persons per square mile, is six miles northwest of the Imperial Palace and five northwest of the 13½ square miles devastated in the Superfortress incendiary raid of March 10.

Surrounding the big plants are myriads of little home industries doing piece-work production for Japan's war machine.

Today's raiding force, described by 20th Air Force headquarters as of "very great strength," was probably larger than the 300-plane armada which made the March 10 incendiary assault on the city.

No fighter planes from Iwo Jima airfields escorted the B-29s today, as in the Tokyo and Nagoya attacks of April 7 and Thursday's raid about noon on the Nakajima airplane engine plant at Musashino, on Tokyo's outskirts.

JAP ATTACK REPULSED

Japanese forces hurled a heavy counterattack against U. S. troops Friday in southern Okinawa, but were hurled back with losses, Fleet Adm. Nimitz anounced today.

Meanwhile, more American artillery joined Marine and Army batteries yesterday on the southern Okinawa front, where U. S. big guns for 10 days have blasted Japanese defenses north of Naha City in the most violent land artillery action of the Pacific war.

The bitter fighting in the south continued unabated and unaffected by Japanese suicidal air attacks Thursday on American supply ships and island air fields, which cost the enemy 118 planes.

Nimitz, anouncing the loss of one U. S. destroyer and damage to several other ships in the air attack, said later the efforts of the "Kamikaze (suicide) Corps, so highly praised by Tokyo, obtained only "negligible success" in return for heavy expenditure of planes and personnel.

ADVANCE CONTINUES

On the northern Okinawa front the Sixth Regiment of the Third Marine Amphibious Corps continued its lightly opposed advance up the Ishikawa peninsula, Friday's communique said.

On the thundering southern front elements of the Seventh, 27th and 96th Divisions of the 24th Army Corps made slight local gains Thursday, Haugland said.

Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, 24th Corps commander, said the Okinawa fighting for the present was an engineering problem, as his troops brought up more artillery and other heavy equipment over roads which returning sunny weather was converting from mud bogs into passable arteries.

Between March 18 and April 12, Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's fast carrier task force planes and ships' gunners downed 1,277 Japanese planes. Of these, 841 were shot out of the air by carrier pilots, 73 by ships' gunners and 363 were destroyed on the ground.

Gen. MacArthur said Bohol in the Philippines had been brought under U. S. control only the day after Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold's Americal Division landed on the southwestern coast. Elements of the division are pursuing the dispersed garrison, he added.

The Chinese counteroffensive in Honan and Hupeh provinces had the Japanese backtracking from their drive toward Shensi province. The Chinese claimed the invaders suffered heavy casualties.

The Japanese-coveted U. S. air base at Chihkiang, Hunan, may be the objective of a new Nippon stab from Paoching. The Chinese engaged one Japanese column 14 miles from the city while another was repulsed 23 miles northward.

Allied southeast headquarters reported that British forces in central Burma captured Kyaukpadaung, 50 miles west of Meiktila, and also made satisfactory progress due south of the latter city.

PRECEDENT BREAKERS

Political Glare Dims For Roosevelt Family

By JANE EADS.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Politics brought the Roosevelt family into the limelight. Their precedent-shattering activities kept them there. Now the President's death will dim the glare.

But the family in this generation probably never will return to the role of average Americans.

Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, the President's only daughter, who accompanied him to Yalta, was summoned from Walter Reed Army hospital. She was sitting at the bedside of her young son, Johnny, ill.

CLOSE TO HER FATHER

Of late, Anna had been closer to her father than ever before. She substituted as his official hostess during her mother's frequent absences. Friends of the family describe her as her father's favorite child. James Farley once termed her the "most gifted politically" among the Roosevelt children.

She is married to Lt. Col. John Boettiger, ex-newspaperman now assisting with the supply problem in liberated areas from a desk at the Pentagon. She has two children by a previous marriage: Anna Eleanor Dall, 18, and Curtis Roosevelt Dall, 15.

The Roosevelt sons, like millions of other Americans, are on what their father called "the world-encircling battle lines."

James, 37, a colonel in the Marine Corps, is on the staff of the commanding general, Amphibious Training Command, U. S. Pacific Fleet, San Diego, Cal. His second wife, the former Romelle Schneider, who nursed him through an illness in 1938, was flying to Washington.

ELLIOTT ON WAY HOME

Elliott, 34 is a brigadier general in the Army Air Forces in London. His third wife, Hollywood Actress Faye Emerson, quit her work at a film studio on learning of her father-in-law's death. She, too, is flying east, while he is en route by air to Washington.

Franklin Jr., 30, is a lieutenant commander, commanding officer of a destroyer escort. He married Heiress Ethel du Pont in 1937.

John, 28, a Navy lieutenant, now is on duty as assistant supply officer on an aircraft carrier in the South Pacific.

'EXTERMINATE JAPS' STATEMENT REPRESENTED OWN OPINION—McNUTT

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Paul V. McNutt said today his recent statement that the "Japanese should be exterminated" represented his own opinion and not government policy.

McNutt did not explain what prompted him to make this explanation in a formal statement of a remark he made during a speech at Chattanooga, Tenn., April 5.

McNutt said in paragraph after paragraph of the Chattanooga speech, he stressed the needs of the Pacific war, the necessity of going all out in the prosecution of the war against the Japanese in order to "get our fighting men back to America as soon as possible with a minimum of casualties."

"With these emotions before me," McNutt said, "I departed from my speech to express my opinion that the Japanese should be exterminated. I did this out of an overwhelming anxiety to complete the war in the Pacific against an enemy whose fanatic disregard for human values became familiar to me during the years I lived in the Pacific"

McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, is a former high commissioner of the Philippines.

Atlanta Pauses To Pay Homage To Roosevelt

Atlanta will pause officially today to pay homage to the memory of President Roosevelt.

The city hall will be closed all day, Mayor Hartsfield announced, and all offices will observe the order. School employes at the city hall also will have the full day off.

Offices and class rooms, however, will resume regular schedules Monday morning.

The American flag atop Atlanta's skyscraper city hall flew at half mast all day yesterday and will be held in that position until after America's only four-time President is buried Sunday at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

L. Glenn Dewberry, city hall superintendent, draped a huge picture of Mr. Roosevelt with black crepe and placed it in the entrance lobby to the city hall yesterday.

The picture was flanked with large vases crammed full of Easter lilies and white snapdragons.

Scores of visitors to the city hall paused to see the tribute and stood silent, loking wistfuly at the picture and the simple but impressive arrangement.

The unexpected death of President Roosevelt was the paramount topic of conversation in the city hall executive offices. Hundreds of persons expressed their sorrow and there was considerable apprehension concerning whether or not administration policies and foreign policies may be affected.

Admirers of the President and those who objected to certain of his policies joined in respectful tribute to his greatness and the imprint of his personality and his philosophy on America, and the world. All agreed that a great American had passed—one whose achievements and ideals will be recorded indelibly on the pages of history of the United States and the world.

Dance Canceled

Miss Rose Herst, chairman of the arrangements committee of the B and P Hadassah, which had scheduled a dance at the temple for service men and women for 8 p. m. tonight, announces that out of respect for the passing of President Roosevelt, the affair has been postponed.

his limousine for the brisk walk into the executive wing. But it did not hide the seriousness of his new job, and his realization of it.

The grin was for the score of newsmen and photographers awaiting him.

"My, I seem to be popular this morning," he said.

Did the President have any statement this morning? a newsman asked.

He turned his head to reply.

"No, nothing beyond what I said yesterday," he said. He meant by that the brief statement he made after the swearing-in ceremony.

"The world may be sure," he said then, "that we will prosecute the war on both fronts, east and west, with all the vigor we possess to a successful conclusion."

He walked inside, with secret service men at his heels. He went to the desk still cluttered with Roosevelt mementoes and curios, and sat down. His first visitor was not a member of his official family, but an old associate and friend, Hugh Fulton, who had been counsel for the Senate War Investigating Committee when Mr. Truman headed it.

MONTH OF MOURNING

Stettinius was the first official visitor to call. And he carried out the first official act of President Truman—a proclamation establishing a month of official mourning for Mr. Roosevelt.

Fortified by the knowledge that his many friends at the capitol and in the nation at large wish him well, Mr. Truman told Stettinius to go forward with plans for the San Francisco world security conference April 25.

Then came his first military conference. For 55 minutes, he talked with Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, and Adm. William D. Leahy, who had been Pres. Roosevelt's chief of staff. From Army Chief of Staff George C. Marshall and Admiral of the U. S. Fleet, Ernest J. King, came the technical reports on our progress toward victory on two sides of the globe.

RAMSPECK GREETING

The President left the White House after that for his old workshop, the capitol. There was a luncheon there in the private dining room of Secretary of the Senate Leslie Biffle. It was a gesture of peace, for relations between the legislative and the executive branches of government have sometimes been strained.

From both sides of the aisle in house and senate came the bigwigs to eat and talk with the chief. There was Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky; Senate Minority Leader Wallace H. White, of Maine, and Sens. Tom Connally, Democrat, Texas; Warren R. Austin, Republican, Vermont; Lister Hill, Democrat, Alabama; Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan; Robert M. LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin; Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and Biffle. From the house were Majority Leader John McCormack, of Massachusetts; Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, of Massachusetts, and Rep. Robert Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia.

Suddenly the President spied a group of newsmen in the hall—reporters who had called him "Senator" and "Mr. Vice President" not so many weeks ago. He excused himself and went outside to accept their good wishes and shake their hands.

"PRAY FOR ME"

"Boys," he said, and he meant every word, "if you ever pray, pray for me now."

He told them that "you boys of the press have been good to me."

"Boys," he added, "I don't know whether you've ever had a load of hay fall on you. But when they told me yesterday what had happened, I felt like the moon, stars and all the planets had fallen on me."

He said he was sorry he couldn't sit down right away with the reporters and talk things over like in the old days. But there was much work to be done first. When a reporter addressed him as "Mr. President," a wisp of a smile crossed his face.

"I wish you'd never had to call me that," he said.

He then went back to his meeting. Senators who came out of the dining room said Mr. Truman still was obviously overwhelmed. But they said he was showing excellent emotional control.

PLEDGED GOP AID

From the Republican side came a tribute—and there were many—for the earnest little Missourian who had come up the hard way through the ranks of ward politics. Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, Michigan, offered it in predicting that Mr. Truman will achieve unity not only in congress, but among all the people of this nation.

"As soon as the people realize his capacities, they will rally behind him," he said.

Sen. Connally, chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that Truman's leadership will "advance and promote the policies of President Roosevelt in our foreign relations."

"He will grasp the banner that fell from the lifeless hands of the great Roosevelt and will carry on toward the achievement of our high aims."

PRAISED FOR GRACE

It took only a part of his first day in office to demonstrate that Mr. Truman wants congress and the nation to rally behind him. On all sides at the capitol was heard praise for his gesture in making the first social call. Republicans in caucus promised to work with him "for the winning of the war and a successful peace at home and abroad." Every senator in town called to shake his hand and wish him luck.

As the luncheon conference broke up, the President demonstrated again that he still remained Sen. Truman. He had shaken hands earlier with all the senate page boys, the ones who used to run his errands.

But when the senators and representatives had filed out singly, about three minutes apart, and the secret service had made a path through the throng, the President left Biffle's dining room. He found the same group of page boys standing there, vieing with secretaries for front-line space.

AUTOGRAPHS

Sixteen-year-old John Bunch, of Statesville, N. C., Biffle's private page, shoved an autograph album in Mr. Truman's direction. He smiled, accepted it and wrote on the first page:

"Best wishes. Harry Truman."

John had had the autograph book for two or three years, he said, but this was the first time he ever had asked for an autograph. It was, he conceded, a pretty good start.

The President had another smile for the newsmen when he reached the hall.

"No comment, boys," he told them. "I'll speak to you Monday."

When the presidential party returned to the White House Mr. Truman conferred with former War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, who had flown up from his Spartanburg, S. C., home to offer his services.

Byrnes, who had been, for purposes of war, the unofficial assistant president of the United States under Mr. Roosevelt, resigned his post little more than a week ago. There was no explanation save that he believed victory in Europe was assured.

BYRNES' AID SEEN

Observers believe that President Truman will accept Byrnes' offer, because the man who had been senator and associate justice of the supreme court, had war knowledge second only to President Roosevelt.

Fifty minutes later Byrnes came out of the executive offices. He said he had offered his services to the President as a "private citizen." He is probably the only American who has complete knowledge of Mr. Roosevelt's dealings with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Josef Stalin at the recent, historic Yalta conference.

"I talked to the President to advise him of matters pending on both domestic and foreign matters about which I am familiar and on which I thought I would be helpful to him at this moment," Byrnes said.

FORGET FRIDAY, 13TH

The President, he added, had asked for his help. And he would be "delighted" to advise Mr. Truman as a "private citizen."

"I have not been offered a government job and we did not talk about one," he said.

After Byrnes had left, Secretary Stettinius returned for his second official call of the day.

The grey-haired, bespectacled President began his administration today under the favorable portent of fair weather. There was a warm sun and clear skies all day, and most everyone forgot that it was Friday, the 13th.

TEST TRUMAN

issued three statements pointing to what his policies will be:

1. Military—"The world may be sure that we will prosecute the war on both fronts, east and west, with all the vigor we possess, to a successful conclusion."

2. General Policy—"Mr. Truman wants to say it will be his effort to carry on as he believes the President would have done, and to that end he has asked the cabinet to stay on with him."

3. Peace Organization — "President Truman authorized Secretary Stettinius to say that the San Francisco conference will meet on schedule."

Mr. Roosevelt had planned to attend the parley, probably at the opening session April 25. With that date less than two weeks off and a multitude of problems pressing for his attention, it was an open question whether Mr. Truman would go.

The military and diplomatic urgencies of the hour leave the new chief executive little time to gain experience. Hence it is considered certain he must rely heavily on his cabinet and other advisers. Secretary of State Stettinus, whose handling of foreign affairs had been based upon President Roosevelt's leadership, is projected more than any other cabinet officer into a new and highly responsible role.

Word of the speed with which victory is approaching in Europe came from members of the senate. They were told by high Army officials yesterday that the end of organized fighting in Germany probably will come within a few days.

This will mean putting into effect all the complex machinery for joint Anglo-American-Soviet-French occupation of Germany.

It will raise new problems of feeding and clothing liberated Europe.

AFTER-VICTORY WORRIES

It will sharpen Big-Three controversies over Poland, Romania and other liberated or ex-enemy satellite countries.

It will remove the greatest single force which has bound all the Allies together since the war began—the common need to defeat Hitler.

All these are foreign policy questions that can be answered decisively only by the President and his secretary of state. They are matched in the strictly military field by another set of equally urgent questions:

How to shift the full American military power from Europe to the Pacific while maintaining a high level of morale among war-weary troops and of home front support; how to continue the combined efforts of Allied arms in the Pacific with the same degree of co-operation obtained in Europe; how to complete the political arrangements for the occupation and long-time control of Japan.

FDR USED PHONE

With President Roosevelt the settlement of many such issues among the leading Allies often came down to a personal telephone call to Churchill or a personal message to Stalin. Even with the large staff of advisers he took to Yalta in February, Mr. Roosevelt had at least two sessions with the British and Soviet leaders at which no others were present except interpreters.

Stettinius has said that except for military decisions the Yalta agreements now have been made public. What informal understandings may have been behind some of the political decisions, however, is known only to the highest officials and may in some instances have been clearly and fully known only to Mr. Roosevelt himself.

The agreement on reorganizing the Warsaw government of Poland, which was supposed to have been accomplished weeks ago, recently bogged down in misunderstandings between Anglo-American and Russian diplomats. Mr. Roosevelt intervened with Churchill and Stalin, and the last hope for an early settlement thus depended on their personal diplomacy.

A ROOSEVELT PRINCIPLE

One of Mr. Roosevelt's cardinal principles was that the organization of peace, like the strategy of war, must be built around the continued co-operation of the leading Allied nations, including China and France as well as the United States, Britain and Russia.

Mr. Truman in his speeches has advocated the same principle. And, like Mr. Roosevelt, he has insisted that smaller nations also must be given equality of treatment with the great and powerful. These policies have become basic to United States preparations for the San Francisco conference.

This was behind Mr. Roosevelt's decision a week ago that the United States should not ask for three votes in the proposed world assembly of nations to match the extra ballots Russia would get if the conference agreed to take in the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviets.

At Yalta Mr. Roosevelt promised to support a Russian request for those two additional seats, and it is considered certain in diplomatic quarters here that Mr. Truman will consider himself obligated to uphold that agreement.

TROUBLESOME ISSUES

Other delicate issues which will confront the American delegation to the conference include the creation of a system of trusteeships for ex-enemy colonial territories of the present and previous world wars. This is a potential trouble-maker among this country, Britain and France.

Mr. Roosevelt's task primarily was to reach a compromise solution on such issues between what other countries demanded and what, in his opinion, the American people would support and the senate would approve.

To bridge this gap between foreign and domestic points of view, the President and his secretaries of state—Cordell Hull and Stettinius—had brought senate leaders directly into their dealings with foreign governments and placed members of both senate and house on the delegation to go to San Francisco.

Now with his own senatorial background, President Truman will be even closer to Capitol Hill.

Churches To Conduct Special Rites Today

The doors of Atlanta's churches are opened wide for those who seek the comfort of religion after hearing the tragic news of their chief's death. Many churches are holding special memorial services today and tomorrow to commemorate the late President.

All denominations will join in a city-wide memorial service to be held at the municipal auditorium at 3 p. m. tomorrow, Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church and president of the Atlanta Christian Council, announced.

Dr. Oglesby will address the congregation and Dr. Herman L. Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church and chairman of the war service committee of the council, will be in charge of the program.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

"The purpose of the program not only will be the eulogizing of the President, but the rallying behind of the new President, with the hope he can carry to completion the plans Roosevelt has so nobly made," Dr. Oglesby said.

"We should channel our grief and emotions into action," he added, "always remembering the greatest force in the world is religion."

Other church leaders who will participate in the program include: Dr. Louie D Newton, of the Druid Hills Baptist church, who will lead the audience in prayer; the Rev. John Moore Walker, bishop of the Episcopal diocese, and Rabbi David Marx, of the Temple, who will read the scripture.

Dr. Charles Sheldon, city organist, will direct the music, and Haskell Boyter will lead the singing. A special feature of the program will be the singing of Roosevelt's favorite hymn, "Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Languid?"

BOY SCOUTS TO ATTEND

Atlanta Boy Scouts, who will serve as ushers, will sit in a body, honoring the late President. Representatives of the Army, Navy and the Georgia State Guard have been invited to attend. A representative of Gov. Arnall and Mayor Hartsfield also will be present.

Servicemen in Atlanta also will bow their heads in silent prayer of appreciation for the Chief. At the request of soldiers, sailors and Marines, the regular Saturday night USO dance at the Y. M. C. A. will be replaced by a memorial service for the President at 8:30 p. m. tonight. Dr. Sidney A. Gates, pastor of the Pryor Street Presbyterian church, will speak.

A modified form of the Episcopal burial service is included in the memorial service to be held at St. Luke's Episcopal church at noon today, the Rev. J. Milton Richardson, announced. The church choir will present a special music program, under the direction of Hugh Hodgson.

SYNAGOGUE SERVICE

Members of the Ahavath Achim synagogue will join in worship at a service at 10 a. m. today, according to Rabbi Harry H. Epstein.

Other churches have changed their scheduled Sunday services to eulogize the President and pray for his successor. Dr. Robert W. Burns, of the Peachtree Christian church, will use as the subject of his sermon, "When the Great King Died."

At Central Congregational church, Dr. Thomas Anderson will conduct a service of appreciation and commemoration of Mr. Roosevelt.

Several Atlanta churches held special services of prayer and meditation yesterday. At the Cathedral of St. Philip, Bishop Walker and Dean Raimundo de Ovies conducted prayer services.

STUDENT SERVICES

Students at Sacred Heart and Marist College held joint services on the campus of Marist College.

Commissioner William C. Arnold, southern territorial commander of the Salvation Army, conducted a prayer meeting held at headquarters yesterday morning.

At Central Baptist church, the President was paid recognition at the revival services held last night, the Rev. Paul A. Meigs said.

Rabbi Marx conducted a commemorative service at the Temple at 8 p. m. last night.

HOLIDAY

Sunday, the day of the President's burial, at all posts, camps and stations where war operations will permit. At that time his official order will be read.

Stimson's general order set aside War Department regulations and directed that the wearing of mourning bands, the draping of colors and firing of salutes be dispensed with "because of war conditions."

Naval ships and stations around the globe were flying the ensign at half mast today on orders from Navy Secretary Forrestal, who similarly designated a 30-day period of mourning for the sea services.

"Memorial services shall be held on the day of the funeral at all yards and stations and on board all vessels of the Navy, war operations permitting," the Navy order read.

Forrestal's order also dispensed with the wearing of mourning badges and firing of salutes.

President Truman's proclamation, issued at the State Department, formally announced the late President's death.

"But though his voice is silent," the new chief executive said, "his courage is not spent, his faith is not extinguished."

"The courage of great men outlives them to become the courage of their people and the peoples of the world. It lives beyond them and upholds their purposes and brings their hopes to pass."

Mr. Truman recommended that the people of this country assemble tomorrow "in their respective bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the memory of the great and good man whose death they mourn."

Secretary of State Stettinius also issued an order of the President closing all government executive departments and agencies tomorrow afternoon. There was no specific reference to private business.

MOURNING STARTS TODAY

The order, however, set one month as the nation's formal mourning period for the late President, starting from tomorrow, the day of his funeral.

The order read, "By order of the President, flags will remain places of divine worship, there to at half staff on all public buildings of the United States until the close of Monday, May 14."

The text of the proclamation read:

"By the President of the United States of America

"A proclamation

"To the people of the United States:

"It has pleased God in his infinite wisdom to take from us the immortal spirit of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the 32d President of the United States.

"The leader of his people in a great war, he lived to see the assurance of the victory but not to share it. He lived to see the first foundations of the free and peaceful world to which his life was dedicated, but not to enter on that world himself.

"His fellow countrymen will sorely miss his fortitude and faith and courage in the time to come.

"The peoples of the earth who love the ways of freedom and of hope will mourn for him.

"But though his voice is silent, his courage is not spent, his faith is not extinguished. The courage of great men outlives them to become the courage of their people and the peoples of the world. It lives beyond them and upholds their purposes and brings their hopes to pass.

"Now, therefore, I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, do appoint Saturday next, April 14, the day of the funeral service for the dead President, as a day of mourning and prayer throughout the United States. I earnestly recommend the people to assemble on that day in their respective places of divine worship, there to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the memory of the great and good man whose death they mourn.

"In witness whereof I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, the 13 day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and sixty-ninth.

(Signed) Harry S. Truman

By the President: (Signed) Edward R. Stettinius Jr., Secretary of State.

The White House, Washington, April 13, 1945."

WARM SPRINGS

of music. The sound came nearer, and down a road leading to the hall marched the combined bands of the 99th Army Ground Forces and the 267th Army Ground Forces.

The air they played was "Stars and Stripes Forever." But the drums bore black crepe and the music was not loud.

The color guard, armed with Springfield rifles, and composed of Pfc. Barron Padgett and Pfc. Grover H. Strickland, filed by, the crepe-draped flag and the regimental colors between them. Sgt. Mathew N. Novak carried the national flag, while Sgt. Charles W. Manes carried the regimental banner.

Following the band and the color guard around the flag pole came 3,000 marching men, from the Infantry School at near-by Fort Benning. The men moved on, officers giving orders in restrained tones. The band stopped playing. Audible now was only the crunching of Army shoes on gravel, as the men moved on. A jaybird chirped, unmindful that this procession paid tribute to a great leader of the civilized world.

Then slowly, the hearse bearing the mortal remains of an immortal American, progressed down the road, made the turn of the plot of ground before the hall, and came to a halt at the flag pole.

The hushed assembly gazed at the hearse with the green-draped windows, each alone with thoughts of the friend who had gone.

Servicemen in the wheelchairs and on crutches and canes saluted, a last salute to their commander in chief.

Behind the hearse walked high military and naval officers, their faces solemn. These were Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, commandant of the Infantry School at Fort Benning; Brig. Gen. William Walker, commanding general of Infantry school troops; R. Adm. Jules James, commandant of the Sixth Naval district; Brig. Gen. Joseph Battley, deputy chief of staff for service commands of Army Service Forces; Maj. Gen. Frederick Uhl, commander of the Fourth Service Command; Brig. Gen. Sidney Erickson, chief of staff of the Fourth Service Command, and Brig. Gen. William H. Hobson, post commander at Fort Benning.

The high-ranking officers lined up as the hearse, driven by George Marchman, of Atlanta, halted. Then the hearse moved off. PO Graham Jackson played "Goin' Home" on the accordion, a favorite musical composition of the late President.

LOOKS STRAIGHT AHEAD

Behind the hearse moved another car—with the President's wife, and R. Adm. Ross McIntire. Mrs. Roosevelt looked straight ahead. She wore a black hat, black veil and a black silver fox jacket.

Four other automobiles followed, and the procession filed out of the foundation grounds, down a road where the President used to enjoy driving a car at high speed.

The procession, with the band playing "Salutation," reached the gates of the foundation, turned eastward on Poole street and moved onward to the railroad station, a half mile away.

Two thousand paratroopers lined the sides of the street. MP's in white helmets and white gloves stood at intervals behind the paratroopers.

The band took a position across from the Warm Springs railroad station, playing "Semper Fidelis." The hearse halted at a specially constructed ramp leading to a wide window of an observation car of the Southern Railway special, 11-cars long train.

COPPER CASKET

Navy, Army and Marine personnel acted as pallbearers and lifted the copper casket out of the hearse. They carried it to the window. It was moved through the window and placed on a special pedestal of pine, about two feet high.

An American flag was draped on the casket. A guard of honor took up its position.

Mrs. Roosevelt, leaning on McIntire's arm, left her automobile and walked to a car. The President's pet, Fala, followed, on a leash held by a friend of the Roosevelt family. The official party boarded the train.

Crowds of Warm Springs neighbors and friends looked on, in silence. They were old and young people, but all had come to know Roosevelt as a personal friend. Their faces, too, were tense and sad. News photographers entered the observation car and photographed the flag-draped casket, going up steps on one side and coming down on the other.

It was 10:01 a. m. when the hearses reached the car, the last one of the train. It was 10:15 a. m. when the train moved slowly forward, headed north.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt had left his beloved Georgia for the last time.

FDR Gave Mankind His Life, Says Brown

Chairman Charlie Brown, of the Fulton county commission, paid tribute to the President in the following words:

"All America and the world mourns the loss of our great President. He was a natural leader and gave his life in the service of mankind."

Luthern Church Open

The Lutheran church will remain open today and tonight for meditation and prayer, in observance of President Roosevelt's death.

PRAYER
that
BRINGS RESULTS

IN NORTH AFRICA, in Europe, in the Southwest Pacific, and elsewhere, the world has been witnessing stirring examples of answered prayer.

Food, water, safety, greater effectiveness, and healing of sickness and wounds, have been acutely needed, and have come through prayer. Even skeptics, seeing the results, have been convinced.

What, broadly, is the meaning of these experiences? Is there a kind of prayer that can be counted on — that is definitely available and availing under all conditions?

The answer to this question, Christian Science shows, is an unqualified Yes. The words of the Founder of Christianity, "Ask, and ye shall receive"—words which bore no hint of an exception—are revealed in this teaching as a statement of pure Science.

The first chapter of the Christian Science textbook,

SCIENCE and HEALTH
with Key to the Scriptures
by Mary Baker Eddy

explains the spiritually scientific and unfailing prayer, or treatment. Study of this chapter has brought to great numbers of people the healing, protection, or other help that was immediately needed, and given them in addition a permanently useful understanding of prayer.

There are seventeen other similarly valuable chapters in the book.

Science and Health can be had in cloth at $2 or $3, or in morocco leather (brown, blue, or black) at $5. Sent postpaid, on receipt of price, by Alfred Pittman, Publishers' Agent, One, Norway Street, Boston 15, Massachusetts, or obtainable at

Appraising Roosevelt's Place in History

It remains, of course, for historians to evaluate comprehensively the deeds of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, 32d President of the United States, for whom funeral services will be held in the White House today.

Only time can lend a true perspective to his role in the overall panorama of history. But there are things, many things, which his contemporaries r e m e m b e r, which they can never forget, which stamp the lamented Roosevelt as a man of truly unprecedented vision and greatness.

Not soon will the world forget the economic chaos in which he found the nation on that March 4, 1933, when he took the oath of office of president of the United States. Not soon will be forgotten the breadlines and despondency which had characterized the latter portion of the Hoover administration.

Roosevelt brought a new approach to pressing problems. His federal relief and make-work programs were in refreshing contrast to the do-nothing policy of his predecessor. His dramatic closing of the nation's banks was typical of the revolutionary manner in which he moved to meet a dilemma which bordered closer to catastrophe than the vast majority of Americans have yet realized. But, as forthright as were the means which the new President took to meet the crisis, it was in his own magnetic personality that the people found real reassurance. Roosevelt's first fireside chat, in which he gave the nation the motto: "There is nothing to fear but fear itself," was the signal for renewed confidence in millions of homes. People innately trusted the calm, reassuring voice of the man who headed the new administration. They looked to his leadership with confidence, a confidence m a i n t a i n e d through 12 of the most turbulent years the world has ever known.

Roosevelt's recovery program, for all its admitted inefficiencies, was a success. Likewise his efforts to humanize government, to provide social security and to end economic exploitation. His philosophy, to be sure, was not without its vociferous critics. Yet the fact that he was accorded the unprecedented honor of impressive majorities in four presidential campaigns attests to the fact that the people looked on his works and found them good.

For all his remarkable record in the years 1933 to '40, it will doubtless be as a wartime leader that Franklin Roosevelt will best be remembered. Roosevelt recognized the menace of Fascism long before men with less foresight; indeed, his critics bandied the "warmonger" epithet with glee when, months before hostilities began, he told his Warm Springs friends, "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war."

Selective service and lend-lease were enacted largely at his insistence, providing the nucleus for our great present fighting force and aiding the gallant British when they stood alone against the seemingly irresistible aggresscr nations. Then later, after the treacherous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the nation found reassurance anew in Roosevelt's comforting voice on the radio, in the knowledge that our destinies were guided by a man who could demand 50,000 planes a year and then organize a war effort capable of producing them.

Throughout the long and dreary days of war, the President has been a never-failing tower of strength. He has directed the continuing program which has seen us become the arsenal of democracy, which has seen American power drive the vaunted Luftwaffe from the skies, the supermen of the Wehrmacht back to the very gates of Berlin.

Moreover, the President has laid, along with the two remaining members of the Big Three, foundations for what, with proper support, may very well prove a lasting peace. And that, as we said on yesterday, will stand as the most appropriate memorial of all to his genius.

Roosevelt, in short, seems at this time and place to have been one of history's immortals, a man of destiny provided by God to lead the nation through an hour of crisis. Whatever the historians' final verdict, they can but record that, almost without exception, his contemporaries were convinced that his was the true measure of enduring greatness.

The Final Barriers, East and West

The apparent ease with which American forces have crossed the Elbe, last river barrier before Berlin, adds impressive evidence to the growing conviction that the fall of the German capital is now but a matter of days or hours.

Only some 45 miles lie between the Elbe and Berlin. And they are 45 miles of open plain, unbroken by natural barriers. The terrain, in short, is ideally suited for a continuation of the amazing pace which has characterized the all-out attack on the heart of the Reich.

The Russians, meanwhile, have reportedly crossed the Oder and begun to drive across the few remaining miles to Berlin. Shortly now, unless the Germans are able to make a desperate, dying defense of their capital, Berlin will be taken and the long-anticipated junction of American and Russian forces will become a reality.

Australia Shared America's Sorrow

MELBOURNE, Friday, April 13.—Flags flew at half-mast in all Australia today as they flew, indeed, in the hearts of all freedom-loving people, when the news came that Franklin Delano Roosevelt had crossed over into eternity. Coming in from the airport after a night-long journey by plane, I had seen the lowered flags and wondered what great Australian might have died. It was when we stepped into the lobby of the hotel that I heard an elderly man say to a friend, "Isn't it terrible about Roosevelt?" Knowing it in my heart I, nevertheless, asked him what the news was.

Australia got the news at 8 o'clock this Friday morning when it was 8 o'clock Thursday night in America. Sadness fell on the hearts of all Australians as the news spread. Having traveled almost around the world and heard the talk and thoughts of people about Roosevelt; having answered their questions, I think I know that the peoples of the literate world are sad, save only those hateful ones whose Fascist poison had so sickened the world that it was forced into the greatest travail of war it has ever known. The peoples of Europe and of Asia looked to the President and to America to supply much of the leadership and much of the understanding which is so vital to the peace and hope of the future. There are millions with sorrow in their hearts, not unmixed with some little dismay and fear. We must not fail them or ourselves.

Tributes There are many tributes flowing to Washington today from the great of the world, and I feel every one of them sincere. They perhaps are not as expressive as the first two I heard this morning. The boy who brought in the bags, seeing we were Americans, said: "It is shocking about Mr. Roosevelt, isn't it? You know, sir, somehow the world seemed to be more comfortable because he was in it." The porter who came to get laundry and suits for pressing said: "I know you gentlemen are sad. We all are. The people of the world will miss him very much. He had done so much for them."

The questions Australia asks are about Harry Truman, now President of the United States. Rarely has it been given to a man to assume so heavy a burden, but also rarely has it been given to be so great a success. The tides of greed and evil which tried unsuccessfully to undermine the late Franklin Roosevelt will begin to flow against him. I believe Harry Truman has more capabilities than is generally believed. If the prayers and integrity of the nation sustain him, he will come through.

Nostalgic Note To a Georgian far from home there was a sudden and bitter nostalgia for home at the news of the President's passing in Warm Springs. I could see the dogwood in bloom and the green of the trees. I knew that peach blossoms were out and that the warm Georgia sun had been like a benediction to the tired body of the ailing president. And I wanted to be home to be with my own fellow Georgians as they mourned him. It was said of Abraham Lincoln when death claimed him that a tree is measured best when it is down. So it will be of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The tree is down and the historians will begin to measure and will find what the hearts of millions of Americans and peoples of the world already knew, that here was the tallest man America has ever given to the world.

Reverse Lend Lease Visible on the Rhine

(Editor's Note: Ralph Jones is ill. Today's column is by Ernest K. Lindley.)

GERMANY.—In driving forward along the northern flank of the American communication lines, I was struck with the amount of smoke issuing from stacks in the industrial areas of Belgium. This is much less than peacetime. Many plants have been bombed and require time for rehabilitation. Others probably lack coal and raw materials, although coal production was recently stepped up. But some plants are in operation and the amount of smoke is especially noticeable in contrast with areas of northern France I have seen so far.

What is more important, this is production going directly to the American forces in Germany. Mighty steel I-beams for the railway and highway bridges which engineers will be building across the Rhine were rolled this winter in the steel mills of Belgium and Luxembourg. Most of the nuts and bolts needed for these bridges, together with the nails and other parts, were manufactured locally.

When it was decided to lay on some bridges single decking four inches thick, instead of twin floors half that thickness, it was found that nails long enough were completely lacking. The engineer procurement officer outlined his needs to a Belgian nail maker, who replied that he had never made any so large—12 inches long. But under guidance of American engineers, the nails were rolled and completed weeks before the deadline.

Critical signal equipment also was turned out by Belgian factories on a short notice. A few weeks ago an order came from the front for cable. The ADSEC procurement officer placed orders locally for 35,000 feet. Two weeks later 22,000 feet reached the First Army just in time for the Remagen crossing. The remainder was delivered to the Ninth Army in good time for its crossing farther downstream.

Another emergency order was for radio antennas to be used on tanks and other vehicles. These were produced to American Army specifications, the parts being interchangeable with those made in the States. Nine thousand sets are already in use by mobile units across the Rhine, and more are being delivered steadily.

Other items produced in Belgium in recent weeks include hundreds of thousands of cable clamps for both pontoon and permanent bridges; hundreds of thousands of duckbills (flanged steel pieces welded to tank treads for giving them greater mobility over the boggy terrain); tens of thousands of feet of bridge cable; and more than 100,000 feet of broad matting woven from wire and wooden strips to provide traction for trucks across soggy river areas.

Belgian lumberjacks vied with the 1317th Engineer General Service Regiment and the 1390th Engineer Forestry Company in felling trees for decking of Rhine bridges. Mills operated by the engineers sawed more than 2,000,000 board feet of bridge decking from Belgian forests during five weeks. Large quantities of Belgian cement are also being used.

This local procurement saved hundreds of thousands of tons of transatlantic shipping. That from Belgium was provided as reverse lend-lease. As Luxembourg is not a lend-lease recipient, supplies procured there were paid for in cash.

The Army Service Forces are also employing increasing numbers of Belgian civilians for the replacement of service troops being funnelled into infantry replacement camps. In traveling through base areas you see apparently able-bodied enlisted men doing some jobs that could be done either by WACs or local civilians. But WACs are unavailable in numbers that could be used throughout the communications zone and it takes time to find, investigate and train civilians. However, the Army has made real progress in putting to good use local resources, personnel, materials and factories alike, in Belgium.

"Those who sneer at modern paintings should remember all innovations, scientific, artistic, commercial or otherwise, have met with like reception."—Excerpt from art article.

The sun sinks low, our lamp-lights glow, the midnight oil we burn,
For there is much of art and such for all of us to learn,
And if we pore ten years or more on many kinds of themes,
Until our brain is racked with pain and we have crazy dreams,
We never will know much until we have an open mind
That will not cling to some old thing which should be left behind.
Yet we have fears that many years and seasons must elapse
Before we find what's in the mind of modern painting chaps.
We've stood amazed and slightly dazed in some sequestered room
And fixed our eyes in great surprise upon "The Night of Doom,"
In solemn pride the patient guide, observing we were dull,
At our behest would do his best to get it in our skull—
Although it might portray the night, if we stood on our head,
It could have been a nesting wren or maybe Lincoln's bed.
O "art is long and time is fleet" and all that kind of stuff—
The trouble is, that modern art ain't fleeting fast enough.

ROBERT QUILLEN

Letter to The Redhead

My Dear Louise:

Do it if you wish. But if a magazine is printed for morons, its advertisements are addressed to the same kind of people; and if you send a quarter to learn how to be charming, you will get a quarter's worth of experience and nothing more.

There is only one secret of charm, and you can learn it by observing charming people.

Have you ever wondered how two people who are opposites in almost everything can be equally charming?

The two most popular men in my old home town were a horse trader and a minister.

The horse trader was eloquently profane, boastful, loud, rough, quarrelsome in his cups, but generous to a fault, kind-hearted, loyal, dependable and fair.

The minister was quiet and gentle and unassuming, as ministers are likely to be, yet both men were liked by the same people.

They were liked because they were genuine.

Of course they were friendly and pleasant to everybody, but that isn't enough to insure popularity, for friendliness can be faked. The secret of their charm was their obvious sincerity. They didn't know how to put on. Whatever they did or said, they meant it.

If you will study the actors on the stage or in the movies, you will soon discover why some are great and the others mediocre. The second-raters are obviously acting, while the great ones have caught the knack of seeming real.

That is also the secret of successful make-up. When powder and rouge are used without skill, anybody can tell it's a paint job. Such coloring couldn't be human. But when the job is done with skill and good taste, the result is a "beautiful complexion" that is enchanting because it looks real.

I don't mean to say that anybody who is natural is charming. Some people are naturally hateful. It's the old story that one shouldn't follow his natural bent if it makes him crooked. All the old virtues are necessary, but they must be genuine.

Many a poor kid fails because she is timid and self-conscious; many another because she has looks and poise but tries to act like some movie star and so repels people by her obvious lack of sincerity.

I once knew a young lady who put-on and play-acted year after year in a vain effort to catch a husband, and so kept herself unpopular till she was almost thirty. Then she gave up hope of marrying; began to be her natural self regardless of what anybody thought of her, and promptly blossomed into the most charming person in the community.

You are naturally the kind of girl commonly described as a good egg. Don't hide your good qualities under a mask. Love,

DAD.

The Man Bequeaths A Priceless Heritage

One finds it hard to realize, even yet, that The Man is dead, that the great fighting heart of him has been forever stilled.

One knew, somewhere in a far recess of the mind, that The Man, after all, was only human; that the load which he was shouldering was a killing one; that it was not unaccountable that the elusive spark of life which motivates even those of his heroic drive and power would some day falter and fail.

One knew these things. And yet, when the hour came, one greeted it with stunned disbelief, with an indignant incredulity, with an almost outraged resentment that it should happen just now when the little peoples of the world had so much need for him to live.

The Man dead? His rich, resonant voice never again to instill renewed confidence in the minds of a forlorn and frightened people? The Man dead? His incisive tongue—remember "Martin, Barton and Fish"?—never again to bring sheer delight to those who revel in a well-picked phrase, expertly handled? The Man dead? His sparkling eyes and splendid chin never again to bring, from enthusiastic friend and grudging foe alike, the realization that here was a m n among men, the like of whom are but few and very far between?

The Man is dead. But his spirit lives in the magnificent heritage which he has left us, in the victory which he conceived and planned, in the peace for which he has prepared the way. The memory of his courage, of his refusal to accept defeat, of his endless efforts to improve the lot of those who, all too frequently, have not had a champion—the memories of all these The Man has left us.

It is a bountiful bequest.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

FDR Left Blueprints For Permanent Peace

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's sudden and tragic death has brought such world-wide repercussion that it is difficult to measure its immediate consequences.

For Mr. Roosevelt, whether all of us fully realized it or not, had come to occupy the very pinnacle of leadership among the moral and military forces of the world.

By virtue of his peculiar personality, his personal charm, and his capacity for dealing with men, he had come—in foreign lands at least—to epitomize the greatness that is America. He was the acknowledged leader of the great triumvirate of Allied nations—Russia, Great Britain, and the United States—which have been engaged in a death struggle with the Axis powers.

Yalta As evidence of the high station to which he had arisen in these circles, we need point no further than to the recent Yalta conference, where, by common consent of Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin, he was selected to preside over the deliberations.

What Mr. Roosevelt's passing means as we reach the threshold of victory and as we approach the problem of creating the machinery for an enduring world peace is a question not easily answered.

The loss of his influence will undoubtedly be felt. America in his death loses some of the prestige which went to the nation under his leadership. Without any intended disparagement of the abilities of the new president, it can be safely said that Mr. Truman faces a disheartening task in seeking to arise to the heights of world leadership occupied by his predecessor.

Nevertheless, it must be apparent that the grand scheme of things as related to the war and the immediate problems of peace will go on pretty much as they had been planned by Mr. Roosevelt. There will be missing only the adroitly seasoned hand of the late president at the helm.

Truman All blueprints for the successful conclusion of the war and the writing of the peace have been drawn by the master draftsman. President Truman will carry on in the same manner as a subordinate officer who takes over in the midst of battle after the commanding general has been killed in action. There need be no misgivings on this score. The new helmsman at the American ship of state is a capable and conscientious leader.

Mr. Truman is a trifle more conservative than Mr. Roosevelt was, perhaps. He may be lacking in the late president's flair for leadership and his ability for reaching compromises with men. But no one regards him as anything but safe and sound, a man who is entirely capable of steering the nation through the remaining period of its greatest crisis in history.

One outstanding difference promises to mark the new Truman administration from that of its predecessor. Sen. Truman, as he is still known among his more intimate circles in Washington, may be expected to be guided by a different influence from that which predominated at the White House during the past 12 years of the Roosevelt regime.

Mr. Roosevelt was an individualist who surrounded himself with his own personally selected group of advisers Mostly they were men who wore an easy allegiance to his will

Mr. Truman, on the other hand, is a product of the senate. The road to the presidency for him led directly from the senate. Consequently he will be expected to prove far more amenable to congressional influence than the late president.

In a way this should make for a more harmonious relationship between the executive and the legislative branches of the government than existed under Mr. Roosevelt. And that may be for the best in the trying times that lie ahead.

Mr. Roosevelt had a way of bruising congressional heads when they did not do to suit him. President Truman will pursue an opposite course, everyone believes. That may make for less executive assertiveness in the White House, but it should be conducive, for a time at least, to greater unity.

Nurses' Angle

Editor Constitution: The following facts will no doubt interest you, especially, since on Monday, April 9, 1945, one of The Constitution's editors found time to ask the question: "Can't congress pass a nurse draft either?"

You would want the U. S. A. to continue to be democratic. Now the real facts are available, we know that bungling is the cause of poor distribution of nurses and realize that the major problems are slow processing of applications, rather than lack of volunteers, and the withdrawal of corpsmen before they have substitutes available.

If any person is so limited in the knowledge of the situation as to believe that the passage of a nurse draft bill would remedy the crying need, let us set about immediately to correct his erroneous ideas. The nursing profession is indeed a proud one but to think that a draft for nurses alone would do the trick would be suicide. You may draft nurses but you can't draft the spirit of nursing.

Nurses have contributed hours and days of time to the recruitment work which should have been carried on by the Army and Navy in a direct manner comparable to the one promoted for recruitment of WACs and WAVEs and SPARs, etc., thereby conserving valuable nursing hours for the critically ill. No! Nurses are not fighting the draft bill but are fighting for a limited service act for all women and a national service act which would supplement and strengthen the total nursing program.

The bulk of evidence is against any need for a draft for nurses alone. Paul V. McNutt stated during a recent visit to Atlanta that there was a need for 181,000 war workers and on that same day the congress spurned the mobilization bill.

The Army blocked nurse recruitment, then jumped the quota, and demanded a draft in order to obtain it. Why haven't men nurses been assigned to the Army and Navy Nurse Corps long before now? Why haven't Negro nurses been assigned to military service in greater numbers and why are so many nurses waiting for assignment? It shouldn't require a law to revise Army and Navy regulations in order to meet current needs. Eliminate bottlenecks and operate on direct contact.

The nurses believe that their record scarcely justified congress in singling them out and making them, alone of all U. S. women, objects of such legislation.

Nurses in Georgia have met their military quotas and will continue to do everything possible to supply adequate nursing service for both civilian and military needs.

Christianity

Editor Constitution: As one woman sees it, all political theory boils down to one issue: the rights of the privileged few vs. the rights of the many.

Perhaps one should not say "the privileged few" for it conveys an impression that is unfair—a selfish group—and not all conservatives, be they Republicans, Rightists, or what have you, are selfish. I refuse to go out on a limb by hazarding a guess in the form of a percentage, but surely we have many conservative Republicans who believe in free enterprise and the capitalistic state because they conscientiously feel that under such a system all will prosper, including the farmer, the laborer, the miner. In short when business is good wages are high, etc.

But this theory seems to me definitely paternalistic. The better class of slave owner in the old south was kind to his slaves. But kind as a father to his minor children. The cynic will say he cared for them as he did his livestock because they were his property. But I challenge this. For this same class have little servant trouble, comparatively, even in this wartime world.

Opposed to this view is that of the masses who maintain that as actual producers of the world's wealth they deserve a just share in its rewards, not doled out to them by a paternalistic government or by so-called progressive industrialists, but as their God-given right.

Few people will deny the justice of this claim. The trouble comes when the masses demand these rights to the extinction of the class that by their capital and brain power have built up the establishments under which the actual producer performs his work.

Theoretically, Communism, Liberalism, Leftism—whatever you wish—is Christianity put into practice. The flaw in the ointment appears in the course of the development of the idea. The unscrupulous labor leader, the extremists of these groups (even Hitler, for Nazism as a creed starts from the same premise as Communism) seize power and use it for their own gain and to the disadvantage—to put it mildly—not only of their opponents but to the very group who put them into power and for whom they presume to speak.

If there is a solution I do not know it. All around us today in every country in the world, conflict is brewing between these two opposing forces. In darker moods it seems there is chaos ahead. But there is always the hope—without it one could not face the future—that the saving leadership will appear from both the left and the right and that somewhere in between a decent compromise can be achieved.

Is this just a pipe dream or is it the millenium I visualize? I confess I do not know.

MRS. DEWITT T. MARTIN
Atlanta.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

CANCER CAMPAIGN

(Columbus Ledger)

There is only one way, really, to fight cancer, and that is to consult your physician if you have the slightest symptom, or maybe you ought to consult him periodically whether or not you have symptoms, because this ugly menace can sneak up on you, and regular checkups of your body are good to have anyway.

We hope you will heed the admonition of the Women's Field Army during this pleasant month of April, and avail yourself of the great knowledge and wonderful research techniques which medical science has developed to fight this age-old killer.

These women are doing a magnificent consecrated work. They need and deserve your attention and support.

22 Georgians Killed, 48 Wounded, 12 Held

Twenty-two more Georgians have been killed in action, one is missing, 12 are prisoners, and 48 have been wounded, according to latest War and Navy Department reports.

In all these cases next of kin have been previously notified and kept informed directly of any change in status.

Killed:

Pfc. Dallas Cecil Hale, of the Fourth Marine Division, was killed in action Feb. 21 on Iwo Jima, the Navy Department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hale, of Thomaston.

Formerly of Woodbury, Pfc. Hale was employed by the Civil Service in Sacramento, Cal., at the time he entered the service on Sept. 4, 1942. He trained at Parris Island, S. Yeggmen Crack Chandler Safe Burglars early yesterday cracked open the safe of A. M. Chandler, Inc., Ford dealer on Courthouse square, Decatur, and escaped with $425. The store stands directly opposite the office of the DeKalb county police, but the safeblowers worked so quietly that the police had no inkling of the event until later in the day.

SHRINE PROPOSED AT WARM SPRINGS

Erection of a national shrine at Warm Springs as a memorial to President Roosevelt has been proposed by P. T McCutcheon Jr., clerk of Georgia's house of representatives.

McCutcheon suggested that Gov. Arnall lead a national drive to erect the memorial to "this greatest humanitarian, leader and president in American history." McCutcheon pointed out that Arnall was a personal friend of President Roosevelt as well as governor of the state where Roosevelt maintained his second home.

FDR Stroke Unsignaled, Says Artist

RALEIGH, N. C., April 13.—(UP)—"The President never looked better than he did just before he was stricken," Mrs. Elizabeth Shumatoff, the Russian-born portrait painter told the United Press tonight by telephone from Danville, Va.

Mrs. Shumatoff, who is a friend of Miss Laura Delano and Miss Margaret Sukley, cousins of the President who were at Warm Springs, was sketching the President when he was stricken. She would not say just how far along she had gotten with the painting.

Bruce Chenoweth Succumbs at 70

Bruce Chenoweth, 70, of 1142 West Peachtree street, owner and operator of the Chenoweth Gallery, a downtown antique shop, died late Thursday at the residence.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today at Spring Hill, with Frederick Avery, First Reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, officiating. The body will be taken to Macon, Ga., for burial.

He is survived by his wife; a niece, Mrs. Harry Cannon, of Decatur, Ill., and a nephew, Arth Chenoweth, of South America.

A native of Decatur, Ill., Mr. Chenoweth had been an Atlanta resident for the past 20 years. He was a member of the Masonic Order here.

A native of Louisville, Miss., Mr. Rogers was county commissioner and justice of the peace there for many years.

Legion in Georgia In Tribute to FDR

Louis C. Summers, commander of the Georgia department, American Legion, yesterday issued the following statement on the death of President Roosevelt:

"The American Legion of Georgia grieves for the loss of a great American and a loyal friend in the death of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. "He manifested his friendship and loyalty to the veteran by his support of the GI Bill of Rights.

"The Legion of Georgia is the proud possessor of the pen which President Roosevelt used to sign the bill, and it will be preserved with the Legion's archives for all time."

Vocational Leader Wires Condolences

M. D. Mobley, of Atlanta, president of the American Vocational Association, has telegraphed Mrs. Roosevelt the sympathies of the association's 30,000 members in the passing of her husband and "our leader."

"President Roosevelt made a magnificent contribution to the development of practical education, thereby increasing employment opportunities, earning power and security of millions of Americans," Mobley said in his telegram.

TRUMAN IS 33D BY OWN VERSION

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—President Truman gave the official verdict today—he is the 33d president.

His proclamation of a mourning period for Franklin D. Roosevelt named the dead executive "the 32d President of the United States."

Actually Mr. Roosevelt was the 31st man to hold the office.

To reach the higher number Grover Cleveland is counted twice, his two terms having been separated.

The argument over the count is one of long standing.

Trumans Plan To Move Into Blair House

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman will move within a few days to Blair House, the official government residence for visitors of state, and will remain there until the Roosevelt family has had ample time to move from the White House to Hyde Park, it was learned tonight.

It is a four-story, yellow house built flush with the street. It has a small garden in the rear. Inside, the beautiful furnishings give foreign dignitaries an idea of the American background.

Narrow steps lead to the front door which opens on a hallway with oriental rug, grandfather clock and flowers.

The drawing rooms on the left lead out to a terrace and to the right are reception rooms. Huge, gold-framed mirrors dominate the two drawing rooms and reflect crystal chandeliers.

The furnishings, everything from Colonial to elaborate French period, are the delight of connoisseurs.

A photograph of President Roosevelt stands on a drawing room table

The Trumans pay $120 a month for their present apartment. A direct telephone line was installed today connecting it with the White House.

After President Truman left at 8:45 a. m. for "his office" his wife and daughter, a striking blonde, remained in seclusion at home.

Miss Byrd, 25, Missing Here

Miss Kathryn Byrd, 25, has been reported missing since she left the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Byrd, of Route 1, Grayson, Ga., Monday morning to return to work at Rich's after a brief absence due to illness.

Miss Byrd, blue-eyed, brown hair, 125 pounds in weight and five feet six inches tall, resided in Decatur, Ga. She had been staying at the home of her parents for the past few days during her illness and was last seen as she left their residence early Monday to return to her job.

ROOSEVELT BIER OF GEORGIA PINE

As he rolled toward his "other home" at Hyde Park, N. Y., the bronze casket containing the body of Franklin Delano Roosevelt rested upon a bier made of Georgia pine grown on the Warm Springs Foundation property, a place he had loved for nearly 25 years.

The bier was made Thursday night by a friend of the great American, Douglas Shipp, maintenance manager of the Foundation.

"It was timber cut and sawed here on the foundation last year," Shipp said. "It was such good timber I had decided to save it for something special.

"Little did I realize at the time I stored that timber away what that something special would be."

ALL IN THE GAME
JACK TROY

A Keen Loss Wartime baseball looked to President Roosevelt for guidance. One word from him and all organized baseball would have been called off in 1942. Instead, he gave baseball a "green light" in a historic letter to K. M. Landis, high commissioner. He said he thought baseball should continue.

This past winter the President reiterated his stand. He encouraged baseball people to keep their game going. At no other time in history had organized sports looked to a president for support.

And a president's interest, in the midst of war, was the greatest possible boost for baseball. It was a regular shot in the arm for morale.

In less than a year's time organized baseball has lost two of its most influential friends, Landis and President Roosevelt.

Now, more than ever, organized baseball stands in need of a powerful successor to Landis, a man empowered to keep baseball on a high plane.

The death of a sympathetic president is deeply felt in baseball and all other branches of sports. Once a fine athlete, the President never lost sight of the value of games.

It is said that he was intensely interested in postwar physical fitness programs; in expanded sports activities. He never missed a chance to boost sports.

We would say that, in considering living memorials, it would be fitting and proper for communities to erect "Roosevelt stadiums."

All organized sports owe their existence to the deceased President, a war casualty. He recognized the old truism that all work and no play promotes dull endeavor.

A great President will be missed in all phases of American life, but, as a friend, his loss will not be more keenly felt than in sports circles.

Incentive A great majority wouldn't go out on lakes or rivers just for the sake of rowing a boat. But, on fishing bent, it's something else. There's an incentive then to row, row, row your boat madly up a stream.

Long hikes through woods, over logs and through bramble patches don't necessarily appeal to the average citizen. But when there's a coon hunt in progress, it's different. This sort of thing is now part of a rehabilitation program at Fort Benning. The coon hunt provides an incentive to exercise

No one would consider walking thousands of yards around a golf course, except for the pleasure of hitting a golf ball or watching experts play the game. Walking, just for walking's sake, wouldn't appeal. The same goes for hunting and other outdoor sports.

Sports provide the incentive for exercise and relaxation.

A spectator doesn't get physically fit watching others play, but, mentally, the game provides a great lift. It's an escape from boredom.

Through active participation in varied athletic events at Groton and Harvard, Franklin D. Roosevelt built up a strong body. And he never lost sight of the value of athletic participation after an attack of paralysis. He still liked to swim. And swimming helped him to remain active.

A Challenge The death of our president is a challenge to the nation's youth to build up their bodies through athletic participation.

It was his wish, in talks with intimates, that this country should have the strongest young men in the world. That our people should represent the fittest nation in the world.

There is no drudgery in play.

Fitness through fun is a slogan that fits. It doesn't require conscious effort to do things that one likes to do.

Another fine thing about greater participation of youth in athletic events is that the increasing problem of delinquency can be more effectively combatted.

American leaders will carry out the wishes of the President. For the greatest safeguard for future security is a nation physically fit.

WYATT TO HURL SUNDAY
Mauney or Kinney Will Pitch Opener

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Either Dick Mauney or Shelby Kinney, both right-handers who were with the Crackers last season, probably will pitch the opening game of the season for the Atlanta club in Chattanooga on Friday, April 27, Manager Hazen (Ki Ki) Cuyler announced yesterday after putting his charges through a torrid batting and fielding session and calling off today's game with the Robbins Field nine, from Macon, out of respect to the late President Franklin Roosevelt, who will be buried tomorrow afternoon.

"Mauney and Kinney seem to be in better shape than the other pitchers at present and have been quite effective in the exhibition games to date, so I believe I shall settle on one or the other for the opener," Cuyler said and then added that he, of course, reserves the right to change his mind in the event some of the others were hurling more effective ball by that time.

Mauney, the only player still on the team who started the season with the Crackers last season, won 16 games last year, and Kinney pitched unusually fine ball after joining the Atlanta Club in the final stages of the 1944 campaign.

Cuyler isn't quite sure who will fling the opener against Chattanooga here on Tuesday, May 1, but intimated it probably will be Mauney, Kinney or one of the other more experienced chunkers.

President Earl Mann and Cuyler were in complete agreement that today's game with Robbins Field should be called off, and Cuyler announced later that there would be no Cracker practice session either.

The amiable manager said the Sunday game with Robbins Field will be played at Ponce de Leon Park as scheduled and will get under way at 3 p. m. A special treat is in store for the fans who turn out Sunday. Whitlow Wyatt, Philadelphia Phillie star who has been working out with the Crackers, will pitch part of the game for our side, and Shelby Kinney also will see service on the slab.

Manager Cuyler is expected to cut his squad of over 40 players sometime today. After today there will be only two open dates for the Crackers between now and the opening of the season, one Monday and one the day before the season begins.

The Cuylermen will hit the road to play Fort Benning's Academic Profs at Fort Benning on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. They will engage Lawson General Hospital at Lawson Saturday and the same club at Ponce de Leon Park tomorrow week. After that they have games on successive days at Ponce de Leon Park with the Atlanta Army Air Base and the Atlanta Naval Air Station, the Navy boys being the foe on two straight occasions.

Then comes a day of rest before the Mr. Umps around the circuit yell "Play Ball" to open the Southern League season.

Travs Cancel Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 13.—(AP)—Manager Willis Hudlin announced tonight that the Little Rock Travelers' scheduled exhibition game with Camp Chaffee, Ark., tomorrow had been canceled due to the Presidrent's funeral.

CRACKER GAME TODAY IS OFF

Today's game between the Atlanta Crackers and Robins Field has been canceled because of President Roosevelt's funeral, which will be held in the White House this afternoon.

President Earl Mann announced the cancellation yesterday afternoon after conferring with Robins Field officials.

Physical Department Of AAC Closed Today

The entire physical department of the Atlanta Athletic Club will be closed from 3 to 5 p. m. this afternoon because of the funeral of President Roosevelt, it was announced last night by Joe Bean, the club's physical department director.

Even the swimming pool will be closed, Bean said.

Tech Faces N. C. Track Team Here

Meet Is Slated For Today at Grant Field

By BERT PRATHER

Georgia Tech's track and field team, defending S. E. C. champion, will open its home season this afternoon at Grant field, meeting the always potent Tarheels from the University of North Carolina.

Field events will start at 2:30 p. m. while the first track competition is scheduled to get under way at 3 p. m.

Coach Norris Dean's tracksters ran into a surprising 70 to 61 defeat at the hands of the Georgia Preflight team last Saturday in Athens, but in losing the Jackets showed up well in most of the events. Don Cady, crack quarter miler, turned in a :50.7 for his specialty in this meet and should be good for a first against the Tarheels this afternoon.

George Hills and Seligman, veteran weight men, are two other almost sure-fire winners in the shot put and discus throws, that is if they erform up to their marks of last Saturday. These two hefties broke the existing Georgia Tech records in both events.

Not much is known about the strength of the North Carolina thinlies this year, but past performances have taught rival teams to expect plenty of competition when facing the men of Coach Bob Fetzer.

Tech's tennis team is also billed at the Flats today. The charges of Coach Fred Bortell will act as host to the Cherry Point Marines. Frank Willett and Howard McCall will play in the Nos. 1 and 2 spots for the home team.

Mobile Bears Need Catchers

By BUZZ WALKER.
(Sports Editor, The Mobile Register).

MOBILE, Ala., April 13.—(AP)—There still are too many "ifs" on the Mobile Bear roster to make any prediction as to what the club will look like April 27 when it takes the field here against the New Orleans Pelicans.

Manager Clay Hopper, new pilot borrowed from the Dodger chain, arrived late after a 10-day visit with Branch Rickey at Bear Mountain, to find a pretty fair pitching staff, and a scattering of infield and outfield talent, but no catchers.

INFIELD ALL SET

At the moment the infield appears to be set with Ted Mueller, lend-lease first sacker of last year at the initial corner; Mike Kosman, diminutive second baseman who was kept in the outfield last year to replace All-Star Scooter Collins on this year's team at the keystone; veteran Babe Benning back at the hot corner, and a newcomer who looks better than fair in Walter (Mike) King at short.

King, who is developing fast under the tutelage of Manager Hopper, has a rifle peg to first that is inclined to ride high, hits line drives down the left foul line for extra bases, and is probably the fastest man on the club. He is rated a pretty fair chance to go up before the season is over.

The pitching looks good with such veterans back as Bill Thomas, Abe White, Ivy Paul Andrews and Jake Baker. Two youngsters return to the mound staff in Vern Godfredsen and Charles Kearney, and newcomers include a 35-year-old rookie in Pat Patterson, almost sure to make the team; Bob Chapman and Bill Ward, rookies from Little Rock; John Wells, who won 11 and lost 15 with New Orleans last year, sent down by the Dodgers, and a local in John Watson.

CATCHERS IN TROUBLE

The club's two catchers, Bobby Dews, obtained from Montreal, and Harry Chozen, from last season's Bears, both are having draft troubles, but are expected to play until called into the service.

In the meantime Johnny George, a local, and Harry Amacher, a rookie sent down by the Dodgers for a tryout, are doing the heavy leather work.'

The outfield is Manager Hopper's biggest headache, with no man on hand assured of a berth. Booger Scott, who played with New Orleans last year until he broke a leg, is in center; R. C. Johnston, a rookie recommended by Scout Wid Matthews, is in right, and a big south Alabama rookie, Pete Richardson, who can hit great guns but needs experience in fielding, is in left.

GMA's Tracksters, Baylor Favorites

CHATTANOOGA, April 13.—(AP)—The 17th annual running of the Baylor relays will get under way here at noon tomorrow with Georgia Military Academy rating the nod to win.

At least 10 schools — Castle Heights, McCallie, Tennessee Military Institute, Georgia Military Academy, Darlington, Boys' High, of Atlanta; Canton, Ga., High, Tech High, of Atlanta, and Navy V-12 Units, of Georgia Tech, and Sewanee—are expected to compete. Vanderbilt may send some Navy runners.

GMA was picked to win by virture of its recent victory over the Baylor team, defending champions.

Ann Curtis Wins

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP)—Ann Curtis, America's 220 and 440-yard freestyle champion, tonight added the 100-yard event to her repertoire of swimming titles and records as she upset Brenda Helser, of Hollywood, in the finals of the national AAU women's swimming championship.

Sports Stopped In FDR Tribute

By HAROLD CLAASSEN.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Sportsdom paid its respect to Franklin Delano Roosevelt today by announcing a virtual cessation of activity until after his funeral tomorrow.

Only the Pacific Coast Baseball League, where all games were postponed last night; the Women's National AAU swimming championships in Chicago and the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs in Toronto planned to carry on.

Prayers will be said before the "play ball" cry at each of the coast games tonight and tomorrow.

In Chicago, AAU Executive Lyman J. Bingham said that inability of contestants to change their train reservations for the return home made it impossible to delay the meet. However, tomorrow afternoon's events were shifted to the forenoon, leaving the funeral hours devoid of athletic action.

RACES CALLED OFF

The national dinghy races, to be held at the Larchmont, N. Y., Yacht Club, of which the late President was an honorary member, were set over to April 21 and 22.

Ford Frick, president of the National Baseball League, asked his club owners to cancel all their exhibitions for tomorrow, the day designated by President Truman as a day of national mourning. All games for today except two were wiped out by independent actions of the owners.

Yale, Columbia, New York and Notre Dame universities postponed baseball games, and the Irish also announced that their Saturday afternoon football drills would be dropped.

Oriental race track in Havana will be shuttered for the day and may not open Sunday. The Tia Juana race track in Mexico also will shut down tomorrow, with racing resuming Sunday.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRIBUTE

In South America, athletes showed their respect by shifting to Sunday the South American track and field carnival originally scheduled for tomorrow. It will be held in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Promoter Mike Jacobs postponed tonight's New York fight card, topped by a 10-round bout between Jake Lamotta and Vic Dellicurti, for one week.

Baseball exhibitions may be played Sunday, just a day before the opening of the major league season at which the late President had promised to throw out the first ball if war conditions permitted.

NATS TO DEDICATE OPENER TO FDR

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—The opening game of the baseball season here Monday between the New York Yankees and Washington Senators will be dedicated to the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Club officials said today that the crowd, expected to be capacity, will "stand a full minute in silent prayer and tribute to this great man" who frequently befriended the game.

No other change will be made in the inaugural day program "because Mr. Roosevelt would have wanted things to go on as usual," the baseball people said.

Presidetn Truman hasn't said whether he will attend Monday's game and toss out the first ball, but it appears unlikely since he will address a joint session of congress at 1 p. m. that day.

West Fulton Nips Decatur

The battle of the unbeaten baseball teams, Commercial High and Marietta, was postponed until sometime next week, but West Fulton and Decatur battled it out on the Owls' diamond with the defending champions downing Decatur, 6 to 5, to get back on the victory trail yesterday.

Virgil Bartlett, with three for four including a two bagger, and "Eeny" Alexander, with a home run and double in four trips, sparked West Fulton's nine hit attack, and Roberts smashed a home run and single in five tries to lead Decatur's eight hit assault. Harry Death and Martin, the winner, hurled effective ball.

Fulton Nine Clips Druid Hills, 10-2

Coach Lucien (Bird) Hope's Fulton High Redbirds thumped Druid Hills, 10 to 2, in an NGIC game on the Druid Hills field yesterday afternoon as Ray Bearden limited the losers to six hits and fanned 13 men. The Redbirds pushed across four runs in the sixth and four more in the seventh to clinch the verdict.

Marion Porter, shortstop, banged out three hits, including a double in four trips to pace Fulton, and Dick McMillin, playing first base instead of pitching, cracked a double with the bases loaded and a single in four appearances.

Neihoff Pleased With Lookouts

CHATTANOOGA, April 13.—(AP)—Manager Bert Niehoff was well pleased with the showing of his baseball candidates today and said if injuries do not upset the apple cart, the Lookouts will be in trim for the season opener.

Centerfielder Earl Wooten, missing from practice since Tuesday because of a bruised elbow, returned this morning.

The Lookouts' exhibition games with the Gadsden, Ala., Blue Jays and Lawson General hospital, scheduled for this weekend, have been cancelled.

Atlantan Is Winner Of Pool Tourney

Harry Berchenko, a technician fourth class, of Atlanta, is the new pool shooting champion of Fourth Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Special Troops, Second Army, now in training at Fort Benning.

Berchenko defeated Sgt. Jerome Bister, of Faribault, Minn, 50-26 and 50-48, in the finals of the tournament, one of the features of the winter indoor sports competition.

Tech High Wins Over SW DeKalb

Coach Allen Shi's Tech High baseballers made it two wins in as many starts yesterday afternoon at Piedmont park when they smothered Southwest DeKalb, 19 to 1.

Robert Barnes and Franklin, the latter playing his first game for the Smithies, were the big stars in the winning attack. Franklin drove in five runs with his two hits, while Barnes, who pitched the first five innings, slammed out three hits and drove in as many runs. Other hitters were Leo Corley, who collected four for five; Mack Couch and Pierce McWhorter, with two safeties each. Lefty Bob Mitchell and Corley rapped out circuit blows.

Mathis and Bloodworth got two for four to lead the Southwest DeKalb attack.

MAT PROGRAM HERE CANCELLED

Paul Jones, Atlanta wrestling promoter, voluntarily cancelled last night's wrestling program because of President Roosevelt's death. "I thought it was the thing to do, although there had been a heavy demand for tickets during the morning," he pointed out.

An off week already was slated for next Friday, as the date is taken. The next wrestling program for the fans will be on the 27th.

Tickets purchased for last night's card will be honored at the next program. Wild Bill Longson, the world's champ from Salt Lake City, Utah, will be here at that time, Jones announced.

Typist Sports Stars Feted After School's Best Season

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Commercial High wound up one of its most successful sports eras with one of the finest fetes of several seasons Friday night in the school's cafeteria where Dwight Keith, Georgia Tech backfield coach, and Rev. Harrison McMains, pastor of the First Christian church, entertained a large gathering with fictional and factual sportslore.

The boys' basketball team, winner of the N. G. I. C. championship; another quintet made up of Commercial boys who won the Boys' Club League championship for youngsters without previous experience; the girls cage sextet; the boys' "B" five, which did not lose a single game in N. G. I. C. play; the boxing team, which finished second to Tech High in the citywide tourney, and the baseball club were honored at the fete which was attended by such notables as Principal E. L. Floyd, who acted as toastmaster; Miss Ira Jarrell, superintendent of schools; Roy Davis, asistant superintendent of schools; Bill Woolfolk, director of the Boys' Club; Shirley Watkins, Dr. Charles Rife, and, of course, Coach O. E. Owen, who tutored the N. G. I. C. champs.

The entertainment was exceptional with dramatic class students of Glenn C. James displaying unusual talent. Betty Cronic's rendition of two popular songs was excellent. Lynette Wilcox's tap dancing; Juanita Howard's reading and singing and Dot Huggins, Hazel Price and Gladys Jacobs, as a singing trio, all were super.

The N. G. I. C. championship cage team, which included only six players at season's end was composed of Ben Edelstein, Phillip Froug, Bill Thompson, Richard Teague and Fred Hasty.

The girls' team, coached by Miss Eylon Anderson, included Ruth Garner, Joan Withers, Myrtis Heflin, Mary Thompson, Louise Harp, Catherine Little, Lorraine Chambliss, Becky Hinson.

The boxing team included Bill Thompson, Charles McGahee, George Johnson, Ralph Goodman, Herman Waters, Max Benator, J. W. Barge, Robert Baker.

The boys with no basketball experience who won the league crown at the Boys' Club were Sanford Andrews, W. A. Skelton, Eugene Jackson, John Fargason, Victor Maslia and Jake Froug.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Financial communities today mourned the passing of the President but maintenance of investmen confidence was reflected in generally rising prices for stocks and bonds.

Business in the share division got under way after two minutes of silent prayer on the floor of the exchange and the reading of a resolution extolling the late chief executive. Principal marts will recess tomorrow in observance of the funeral and, with a two-day shutdown intervening, considerable caution was displayed by boardrooms on the idea important war news might be in the offing.

Leaders dipped at a fast opening but demand for utilities soon changed the direction and, while some rails were a bit indifferent, gains at the best ran to 2 points or more. There were subsequent slowdowns when top marks were reduced. Operations again stiffened in a number of cases at the close.

The bond market faltered at the start, regained its composure and subsequently fell back into a narrow and irregular range today.

Better curb performers included American Gas, American Light, American Superpower, Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson Power and North American Light. The aggregate here was 500,000 shares versus 270,000 yesterday.

Chaplin Again Given 'Proximity Test'

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(AP) For the second time today, Charlie Chaplin stood beside Joan Berry, his 24-year-old former film protege, and her 18-month-old daughter, Carol Ann, to permit a superior court jury to compare their features.

The "proximity test," Judge Clarence L. Kincaid explained, was requested by Miss Berry's attorney in support of her suit to have the veteran actor declared the father of her child.

As in the first trial of the case, when the jury disagreed, Chaplin looked fixedly over the heads of the jurors as they scrutinized his face and that of the child. Previously he had stared at the baby for several minutes as she squirmed in her mother's lap.

The man who can lay a roof without "laying down" on the job is advertising in the Business Service column on the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Take your time before 7 p. m. and do not be disappointed if affairs around you are very slow. Today is a better day for looking around you and viewing life than it is for practical applications.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Harmony rules before 3:06 p. m. and is a favorable time for making peace with others and for working in affairs related to entertainment, art, music and decorating.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Contentment and a feeling of good fellowship before 7:36 a. m. favors domestic ideas, pushing those things that add to your enjoyment and artistic affairs. Between 7:36 a. m. and 3 p. m. you may have a feeling of high tension, but if this can be subdued, give your attention to affairs that are practical and necessary.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—You may feel that you are running around in circles, or not running at all, before 7:57 a. m. This is not a favorable time to try and do things in a hurry, or for dealings in real estate and making new beginnings. Between 8:57 a. m. and 6:03 p. m. favors general business and legal interests.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—The morning hours and until 3:12 p. m. you can make fortunate advances in your efforts. This period favors dealings with superiors, promoting ideas that will advance your reputation and contacting powerful people.

Aug. 23-Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—Previous to 11 a. m. is favorable for almost all matters. After 11 a. m. be careful of confusion and uncertainties. This will be a period when new ventures should be left entirely alone, and to use care around oils, chemicals and water.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Previous to 9:19 a. m. is an auspicious time for work that calls for courage and quickness. During the entire day guard against extravagance of all kinds.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—During the entire day and until 10:43 p. m. you will have the impulse to act quickly, speak sharply, and to change your activities. Calmness will be the best policy, avoiding changes.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—This is a very inauspicious day for new speculations, whether it be taking chances with money or time. However, some new announcement along these lines may come prominently before your attention. Before 1:32 p. m. use caution in liquids and water.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—Decisions made today may be a deciding influence on your future. Erraticism and high tension are in order, so you will profit more by taking the path of least resistance. That is, do not make change or enter into some new agreement unless it comes about naturally.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—You can draw together and bring to a head a number of your activities today, especially in connection with finances, personal progress and dealings in legal and educational affairs. This will be an auspicious time to cement friendships which will prove of benefit later.

Feb.-March 20 (PISCES)—This morning and until 2:17 is a time to avoid getting into arguments or disputes with others. This is a time when you will have the inclination to say and do a number of things that you may regret later. Over activity should be curbed.

RICH'S

YOU'RE A KEY WORKER.
YES, YOU. Because within just a few weeks you can be trained to fill a fascinating position—full pay as you learn—and the minute you finish your training course, you become an important KEY WORKER.
WHERE?
IN A vital post where your quick, sympathetic fingers may bring together the broken threads of two lives long parted by overseas separation—as a returned wounded soldier chokingly asks you for his wife's phone number in Denver or Spokane.
OR YOU may help speed a shipment of artillery shells to Hill X where your own husband or fiance is nosing into the mud against a temporarily superior foe. You can feel the life-and-death importance of your job as you rush through a long distance telephone call from a shell manufacturer here to the War Department at Washington.
HOW?
AS A telephone operator in world-wide communications, the position brings advantages you would probably never think or ask for, in your eagerness to give yourself to the great world effort. But they are there for you just the same.
VACATIONS with pay. Pleasant surroundings as you handle your vital KEY job. Association with warm, congenial companions. Sick benefits and a pension to look forward to. Above all, a JOB TO OUTLAST THE WAR, with opportunity for ADVANCEMENT.
YOU can thus be planning a comfortable future while working now to help speed the victory that makes that future possible.
COME IN and have an easy, friendly chat with us about it.
See Mrs. Youngblood
At the Telephone Building,
51 Ivy St., N. E.
Any time from
8 to 4 Monday through Friday
And 9 to 1 on Saturday
IF YOU are between 16 and 35 you will want to learn all about the possibilities this dramatic occupation holds for you now and in the future.

TRAINEES—For those without particular skills or trades, several job openings are available. You will be well paid while learning and will be advanced according to your own skill and aptitude. These openings are ideal for housewives. Consult an interviewer for details.
SENIOR STENOGRAPHERS — Must be experienced. Capable of taking dictation and transcribing notes rapidly. Should have a good typing speed and be able to handle general clerical work.
TABULATING MACHINE OPERATOR—An experienced IBM tabulating machine operator needed for the second shift.
ASSEMBLERS—Will accept anyone with experience in any one of the metal or mechanical trades.
BENCH MECHANICS—To do sheet metal hand forming using various tools and other equipment.
INSPECTORS—This job will be to inspect simple and/or complicated aircraft parts for assembly to blueprint specifications.
OFFICE CLERKS—Perform general routine clerical work such as keeping records and filing. Typing experience helpful.
TYPIST—With or without experience. Classification depends on speed and accuracy. Will perform general clerical duties in addition to typing.

GOOD CHICKS
BARRED ROCKS, White Rocks, Reds, Hampshires, Leghorns, sexed or unsexed.

THEY are here in big quantities for your choosing. These chicks are U. S. Pullorum-tested to better than required for the grade.

YOUR assurance of healthy, vigorous, bright-eyed chicks of better livability, better growth.

OF REPORTS recently received, 216 of them representing 25,800 chicks had a net loss of only 341 chicks in 14 days. Many of them did not lose a single chick. Chicks that live are the ones that pay—and the Blue Ribbon kind will do just that if given a chance.

ELECTRIC BROODERS
200-Chick canopy brooders (metal) $13.95
400-Chick canopy brooders (metal) $29.19
500-Chick canopy brooders (metal) $39.19
200-Chick canopy brooders (kraft) $8.95
150-Chick canopy brooders (kraft) $3.50

BUY these brooders, and put in some of these fine chicks now and have big, fat, juicy fryers for your own table and make extra money by selling some to your neighbors.

Atlanta Amusements And Stores To Close Today Out of Respect

All places of amusement within the city and every member of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, including the downtown department stores, and state and county offices will remain closed throughout today in a silent tribute to President Roosevelt.

The movement to close down all Atlanta business houses was started at the suggestion of Oby Brewer, head of the merchants' association.

The night clubs here announced that they would remain closed throughout the day, opening tonight to take care of the large throngs who had made reservations. The statement on the night clubs was copied by the theaters in Atlanta who decided to stay dark until 6 p. m. today, pausing tomorrow during their screen program, during the funeral services.

GROCERS REMAIN OPEN

There was one exception to this almost general rule. That was in respect to the chain grocery stores, which planned to keep open their doors until 3 p. m. today in view of the fact that Saturday is one of the heaviest days of trading and because of the scarcity of food. The grocerymen stated that they felt that many war plant workers and others have not had an opportunity to make weekend purchases of food, and it was in the best interests of the community that they stay open half a day.

Most of Atlanta's grocers and druggists, who perform a necessary public service, will remain closed only a part of the day in view of the fact the products they handle are necessary to the health and well being of the community. All members of the Retail Merchants' Association, including department stores, jewelers, shoe stores, etc., will, however, remain closed all day.

State Revenue Commissioner J. Eugene Cook issued an executive order closing down all liquor stores in respect of the late President. At the same time Atlanta's 21 pawnbrokers, members of the Merchants' Brokers' Association, issued a statement through President Mike Ellman that they would not open for business today, either.

The flag atop the state capitol will fly at half mast and all state employes have been informed that the capitol will be closed.

In ordering the capitol closed, Gov. Arnall said: "The nation and the world has suffered irreparable loss in the passing of our wartime leader and President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Our hearts are sad. President Roosevelt loved Georgia and the people of Georgia loved him."

County and city offices in Decatur will be closed, also, according to orders from Scott Candler, county commissioner, and A. F. Newman, city manager.

In light of their importance to the community, the city's druggists will not be closed all day. Three large chain drug firms—Lane's, Liggett's and Jacobs—will close from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. today and will not open until 12 noon Sunday. There was no statement covering the independent druggists, but it was felt they would follow the same pattern.

While it does not fall under the general classification of the business and entertainment places mentioned herein, a number of USO organizations banded together and decided to dispense with dancing scheduled for Saturday night, but to keep open the buildings with refreshments on hand for the servicemen guests. Those who will abide by this order are U. S. O. Servicemen's Center, Knights of Columbus Hall; Jewish Welfare Board, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and the Negro Center of the USO located on Hunter street.

Among the merchants who made it known they would not be open for business today are Walter R. Thomas Jewelry Store and Myron E. Freeman & Bro., jewelers; the Georgia Power Company and its four substations; all units of the Edwards Shoe Store, Rich's, Davison's, Muse's, High's, J. P. Allen & Co., Regenstein's stores, Frances-Virginia Tearoom and Diamond Jewelry Company.

Some of the grocery firms which will close at 3 p. m. today are: Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Big Star, Colonial Stores, Quality Service Stores, Piggly Wiggly, Big Apple Super Markets, Municipal Market on Edgewood avenue.

The Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company will pay its respects to the memory of the President when it halts momentarily at 3 p. m. today all manual and long-distance service.

'Casualty,' Underwood Calls FDR

Judge Praises His 'Prophetic Vision' In Foreseeing War

Characterizing President Roosevelt as "a casualty of a war in which his country has been engaged and the architect of victory," Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday paid tribute to the late chief executive before adjourning court for the day.

Court was convened at 10 a. m. and defendants, witnesses and counsel in the prison mutiny case, now on trial, assembled as usual. No business was conducted, however, and Judge Underwood adjourned court after making remarks upon the death of the President and calling on the heads of federal court departments to speak.

"No praise can be too high of his prophetic vision, which saw long before others the approach of war," Judge Underwood said, "nor of his masterful genius in preparing for and the conduct of it.

NEEDED AT PEACE TABLE

"While we are thankful that he was spared to play so successful and large a part in building for world peace and security," he added, "we can but deplore that he cannot participate in the final shaping of peace and a world organization.

"Not only in armed might and economic strength was he proficient, but he was also deeply interested in the welfare of the common man and preservation of the civil rights guaranteed by the constitution," Judge Underwood continued. "No one has struggled harder than he to see that the strong did not oppress the weak and that he had equal opportunity regardless of race, color, creed or condition."

M. Neil Andrews, U. S. attorney, said: "Almighty God, in his infinite wisdom, has taken from us probably the greatest humanitarian this nation has ever knowg. So many little people feel that they don't know which way to turn because of his death."

GUARD HIS PRINCIPLES

Andrews emphasized that the American people must be diligent in preserving those of the President's principles which have already flowered and in nurturing those which have not yet flowered but for which he stood.

U. S. Marshal Charles Cox recalled that President Roosevelt saved the financial structure of the nation and the world in the first years of his administration, in addition to devoting his knowledge to the winning of the war in the later years. Cox said that the prayers of all go with President Truman, "that he may successfully carry on the work of the late President."

FRIEND TO "COMMON MAN"

F. L. Beers, clerk of court, pointed out that the President always devoted "great thought and energy to the common man, and was never too busy to reach down and give him a helping hand."

Joe Martin, assistant probation officer, compared Mr. Roosevelt's qualities to those of Lincoln. James V. Bennett, director of the U. S. Bureau of Prisons, stated that the President's great ability and familiarity with the problems of the common man earned him the love and esteem of every individual.

Judge Underwood also called for remarks from George G. Finch, veteran of World War II; George West, a member of the jury, and Hal Lindsay, representing the Bar Association.

Banks Remain Open

Banks in the Atlanta area were forced by a technicality to remain open for their usual Saturday schedule today. Due to the fact that Gov. Arnall has not proclaimed today a legal holiday, or a day of prayer in which all businesses throughout the state would be closed, the banks will of necessity remain open for business.

Atlanta's School Children Bow Farewell to Roosevelt

With little realization of the history-making events that are happening, Atlanta's school children bade farewell to their nation's leader—for some the only President they have known.

Over 50,000 youngsters, some in school rooms, churches, auditoriums, on parade grounds and even in kindergartens, yesterday bowed in solemn tribute to Roosevelt.

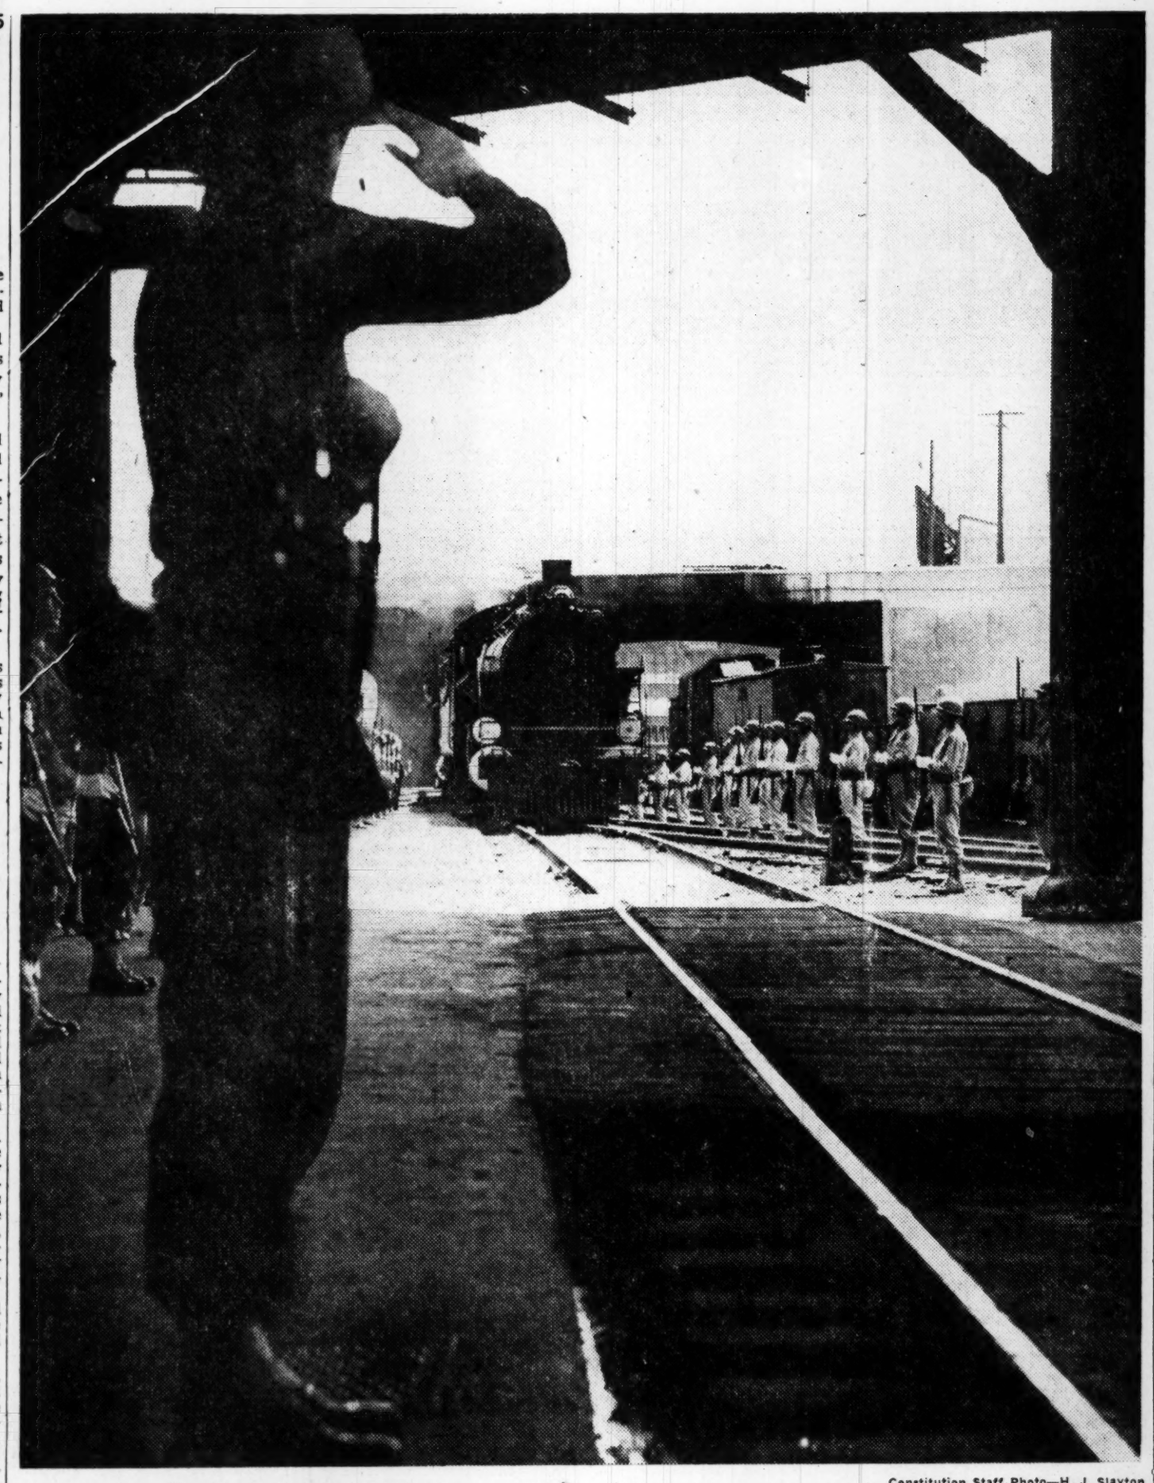

Silent prayers for a leader who had been to them the greatest human in the world, and simple, reverent songs said the most respect the youths could give. Adults present felt chills run up their spines and tears flow from their eyes as simple songs, such as "Home on the Range," drifted from quivering lips of children.

Some of these students were giving their prayers for the deceased President in schools built from WPA funds—grants made possible by Roosevelt.

Possibly some of them didn't realize what it was all about as they bowed beneath flags flying at half mast. Others, more advanced, understood from the precise drills of military schools, and the stirring band music.

Preachers from Atlanta's churches participated in most of the programs. Virtually every school had its private ceremony and went on with their regular day.

Though, as all children do, they went to memorial exercises midst chatter and laughter, the students returned serious and quiet. From toddlers to boys nearly of age for war, Roosevelt received the utmost reverence. Not one was unaware of the silence and respect grown-ups displayed. And from their elders they gleaned a feeling of amazement. But a silent prayer for the dead leader, and a strong confidence in the principles the half-masted flag represents to them—renewed the spirits of these youngsters.

A SALUTE TO HIS CHIEF—As the train bearing President Roosevelt's body entered the Terminal station yesterday a Camp Sibert soldier of the honor guard gives a salute to his late commander in chief.

MISSION COMPLETED—As the hearse which bore the body of President Roosevelt to the train rolls away, members of the military guard of honor can be seen marching slowly toward the car steps to take up their grim task of guarding the casket on the long journey from Warm Springs to the President's "other home."

ATLANTA PAYS TRIBUTE WITH FLOWERS—A huge basket of white gladioli and red roses, presented by Mayor Hartsfield on behalf of the people of Atlanta, is lifted onto the last car in the funeral train. The spray was placed at the head of the President's flag-draped casket. No other flowers were in the car.

Saddened Atlantans View Funeral Train En Route to Capital

By CECILE DAVIS.

Steel-helmeted soldiers stood at attention and thousands of solemn-faced civilians crowded streets and viaducts near Atlanta's Terminal station as an 11-car train bearing the body of President Roosevelt paused here for 40 minutes yesterday.

Two locomotives, their bells clanging mournfully, drew the train slowly into the station and came to a halt at 1:30 p. m. The platform was lined with two companies of white-gloved soldiers from Camp Sibert, Ala., who held bayoneted rifles.

Mayor Hartsfield, Maj. Gen. Frederick E. Uhl, commanding general of the Fourth Service Command, and newspaper and radio men gathered at the last car, in which was the flag-draped casket of the chief executive.

FLORAL OFFERING

Stephen Early, White House press secretary and close personal friend of the late President, stepped from the train. Mayor Hartsfield, expressing the deep sorrow of all Atlantans, presented Early a basket of white gladioli and red roses. The flowers were placed at the head of the casket, which was guarded by two sailors, a soldier and a Marine. There were no other flowers in the car.

The mayor returned from the funeral car carrying one rose from the spray. He presented it to Mrs. C. F. "Chuck" Palmer, of 10 Palisades road, who was at the train with Mr. Palmer. The couple were personal friends of the President.

Entering the adjoining Pullman car, which was blacked out, the mayor and Gen. Uhl expressed their sympathies to Mrs. Roosevelt, who was alone in the car except for two other women—Miss Grace Tully, the President's personal secretary, and Mrs. Early.

"There are no words which can express our feelings of sorrow today," Mayor Hartsfield told the first lady.

"I understand," Mrs. Roosevelt replied. She was calm and composed. The only member of the President's family aboard the train, she remained in her car throughout the stop.

Judge H. H. Revill, of Greenville, Ga., a personal friend of the late President and many times a visitor at the Little White House at Warm Springs, asked one of the secret service men aboard the train about Mrs. Roosevelt. The plain-clothesman replied, "Fine." Judge Revill is said to be the first man to mention Mr. Roosevelt for president.

Apparently unaware that his master's voice has been stilled, Fala, President Roosevelt's little black Scottie, walked up and down the station platform at the end of a leash held by a Negro serviceman traveling on the funeral train. He wagged his tail and was friendly to the sympathetic greetings of bystanders.

News photographers and newsreel cameramen flashed bulbs in his face, and people crowded around to see the famous White House pet as he strolled about the station.

Hours before the train arrived, throngs of Atlantans braved bright sunshine and sweltering heat to catch the first glimpse of the funeral car. In addition to those who crowded close to the station, many spectators lined the railroad track throughout the city.

As the train came into the station, a trolley car crossing the Mitchell street viaduct stopped while the operators and passengers watched its arrival. Traffic was congested for blocks around the terminal.

Throughout the city flags were flown at half-mast, as officials and citizens alike paid their last respects to the great American leader who died amid the Georgia scenes he loved so well.

WPB Chief Requests All Plants To Carry On In Mourning Period

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) War Production Board Chief J. A. Krug today issued a call for all war plants to operate full schedules today and tomorrow, "pursuant to wishes expressed this morning by President Truman."

"American workers and management can pay their tribute to Franklin Roosevelt in no better way than by staying on the job to maintain an unbroken production of war goods," Krug said in a telegram to all WPB field offices.

Commemorative services "might be held where plants desire to do so," Krug said.

Some large corporations already have sent word to their plants and offices that memorial services might be held at 4 p. m. the hour of the presidential rites.

FALA STROLLS STATION PLATFORM—Leaving the President's funeral train during its 40-minute stop in Atlanta, the chief executive's little black Scottie walked about the platform of the Terminal station and wagged his tail in response to the sympathetic expressions of bystanders. Many people crowded around the famous White House pet, and photographers and newsreel cameramen snapped his picture.
